Antioch First party plans street, water improvements

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"Antioch First's second goal is to continue to improve street, sewer, sidewalk and water systems," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug, incumbent candidate for the mayoral position. "The current administration has a strong record of planning and competing public improvements which benefit the entire village."

She said the party plans to use revenue from new commercial development as well as from state and federal sources to help finance current plans to improve the street, sewer, sidewalk and water systems.

"The village has plans to improve Lake Street including resurfacing, new curbs, gutters, sidewalks and upgraded lighting similar to new lighting on Main St. The village also has plans to improve McMillen and Anita located in the industrial park," said Shineflug. "The village is scheduled to receive federal funding administered by the state for these projects, but will need to finance approximately 30 percent of the costs as a local share."

She explained that there is an annual street rehabilitation program in place, but tax caps limit the funding available to accomplish it. One percent of sales tax revenue generated within the village limits goes to the village, now about $1,800,000. New commercial development is expected to bring between $800,000 and $1,500,000 additionally each year.

Shineflug said, "Village residents would benefit directly because the additional revenue could be used to help accelerate current plans to improve Antioch's streets, sidewalks and other public improvements."

The Antioch First party plans to support the Antioch Facilities Plan under development by the current administration through studies conducted to address flooding problems throughout the village, particularly Oakwood Knolls. "This plan will be used to apply for one or more low interest loans from the state to obtain additional funding for improvements," said Shineflug.

Additionally the party will support the village's participation in the development of the Sequoit Creek Watershed Plan and the Little Silver Lake Subwatershed Plan. Shineflug said, "An action plan will be developed to include specific remedial action items to fix existing problems as well as general and site specific preventative measures for the future."

New legislation makes Ecstasy a class X felony

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Illinois House of Representatives created tougher penalties for those possessing or selling club drugs containing MDMA such as Ecstasy by approving House Bill 126. With this bill, MDMA related drugs fall under the same class X felony penalties as cocaine.

State Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) sponsored the legislation and said, "Drug dealers had found a loophole in legislation that allowed them to put profit before the risk of prosecution."

The bill also amends the drug-induced homicide and infliction of great bodily harm statutes to allow street level dealers to be charged when death or serious injuries are the result of the sale of illegal narcotics.

"What makes Ecstasy so dangerous is that it's made by criminals in unsanitary conditions, you never know what will be in any given pill," said Terry Lemming, director of the Lake County Metropolitan Enforcement Group. "These criminals market the drug to children, from grade school through college. Research shows that even limited use of Ecstasy can cause brain damage."

MDMA stimulates the release of the neurotransmitter serotonin from brain neurons producing a high that lasts from several minutes to an hour. It can damage neurotransmitters affecting mood and memory, and push the user's body temperature and heart rate to dangerous levels.

Additionally, studies show it can cause addiction and other problems similar to those experienced by amphetamine and cocaine users. Other side effects include depression, sleep problems, anxiety and paranoia both during and up to weeks after taking the drug.

Osmond said the legislation is critical to protect children from the prey of drug dealers.

Casual day provides home repair

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBE) will be holding its Casual Because We Care day on March 16 to benefit the Christmas in April charity that provides home repairs for low income, elderly and disabled people in the northern suburban Chicago area.

Employees will be encouraged to dress casual in exchange for a $2 donation to the charity. Customers may also make donations to the cause on that day. All of the money goes directly to the charity.

"We like to do one casual day a month," said Karen Kubin, marketing officer for FNBE. "We encourage employees and customers to let us know of local charities or funds that are in need."

The Christmas in April organization brings skilled and unskilled volunteers together one day each year to provide home repair to those who are physically or financially unable to maintain their homes. Referrals come from local social service agencies, community and neighborhood associations, religious organizations and private individuals.

Low income, elderly or disabled homeowners who are not able to afford home repairs are eligible to apply. Homes are inspected and evaluated by a professional home inspector or a skilled trade person. Selection is based on need and available resources.

For more information about FNBE's Casual Because We Care program or Christmas in April, call Kubin at 838-2265.

It's not better in the Bahamas—believe me

Yes it is probably an omen from the start when you agree to journey on a Disney adventure with 43 of your friends and relatives. Then to be confronted with delayed flights, cold and rainy weather in Orlando, lost baggage, and overpriced food, the first four days of our expedition took quite a toll on the attitude.

But now we were setting sail on Disney's very own ship, "The Wonder," for a cruise that was going to make our dreams come true, or perhaps not. The Wonder must have stood for "I wonder what is going to happen next." The rain had stopped and the sun was shining, but it was still "jeans and jacket" cool.

Once aboard the ship, the kids grumbled

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

about the size of our stateroom. What did they know, compared to other ships' staterooms, this was like the Taj Mahal. It was spacious enough to actually have two people standing upright at one time and having the extra advantage of our own balcony meant we could all four be in the room at the same time. Okay, maybe things were looking up on

Crop Walk supports 13 Lake County agencies

Over $23,800 will be divided among 13 agencies providing food and shelter in Lake County. The figure represents 25 percent of the $95,510 raised in the Oct. 15 Crop Hunger Walk, an event supported by walkers from 63 religious congregations and schools in the northeastern corner of Lake County. Walk coordinator, The Rev. George Franke, praised the efforts of the more than 870 walkers: "This is our best year since Crop Walk started more than 25 years ago. We are happy that we can provide this level of support to these agencies who help the growing number of people who need help obtaining adequate food."

The agencies receiving the funds are: A Safe Place, Alexian Brothers: The Harbor, Christ Episcopal Church Community Meal, Connection Resources, Inc./PADS, Christian Outreach of Lutherans (COOL) Food Pantry and Transitional Housing, First United Methodist Church Free Meal, Holy Family breadbasket Soup Kitchen, Holy Family Social Services, Holy Family West Food Pantry, St. Anastasia Soup Kitchen & PADS, Shiloh Baptist Church Soup Kitchen and Food Pantry, SHARE/Food Waukegan, and Waukegan Township Staben House and Staben Center. Together these agencies provided 479,418 meals in 1999.

Planning for the 2001 Crop Walk on Sunday, Oct. 21, has already begun. Persons interested in helping the organization achieve its goal of $100,000 are invited to contact Rev. Franke at 336-7983.

this vacation from hell. No sooner were the words spoken and we set sail, off into the sunset and very choppy seas.

As we sat down for dinner, one by one, 15 of the 17 children in our party went scurrying back to their rooms a bit green around the gills. Dramamine was their main course for dinner that night. The next morning brought us into Nassau, and overcast skies. As we prepared to disembark the ship and explore the island, a light drizzle began to fall. Twenty minutes later it turned into a steady rain, and eventually, by mid morning, it became a full-scale downpour, which lasted for the entire day.

The next day, all attempts to land at Disney's private island were aborted because of the storm system, and we were left to flounder at sea with gale force winds. The captain did his best to keep the ship stable in the 20-foot swells, but every once in a while something or someone was sent into flight. My dad kept muttering that he had warmer weather on his Alaskan cruise. The ship was a flurry of activity, but having to don leg irons and a life jacket to play shuffleboard on deck, kind of takes the fun out of it, and the pool, although heated to a toasty 84 degrees, was closed because someone got seasick in it.

We did finally make it to the private island on the last day of our scheduled tour, but rather than basking in the lukewarm temperatures and cold seas, we spent the day kissing the solid ground beneath our very unsteady feet. An audible groan went up over the beach when the final call to return to ship sounded. Being behind schedule, the last night on board was spent racing back to port through rough, choppy seas. Everything that wasn't bolted down was laying on the floor at the break of dawn, including several displaced sleepers. The bathroom looked alike a tornado had swept through it leaving a pile of battered toiletries in its path. But at least, after breakfast, our adventure was about to come to an end.

We would be free to begin our voyage back to Illinois to show off our windburn to all our friends and relatives who chose not to join us on our excursion. There was only one little thing standing between us and home, sweet, home—the dreaded customs. My only thought was if Disney is supposed to make "dreams come true," they must have some really scary nightmares in that part of the country.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

State Farm donates $1 million to Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum

First Lady Lura Lynn Ryan today accepted a $1 million donation from the State Farm Companies Foundation for the construction and operation of the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum in Springfield.

With State Farm's commitment, private donations to the new Library and Museum now total $4.5 million. Groundbreaking for the library portion of the complex was held on Lincoln's birthday.

Michael Matlock, regional vice president-agency for Bloomington-based State Farm, presented Mrs. Ryan with the first $200,000 installment of the company's pledge. Under the terms of the donation, State Farm will donate $200,000 annually for the next five years to the Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum.

State Farm has been a model corporate citizen in Illinois for almost 80 years. With this donation today, State Farm is doing its part to make sure that this important project moves forward. And State Farm is doing its part to make sure that Illinois' priceless collection of artifacts and documents is preserved and displayed properly for future generations, "Mrs. Ryan said. "On behalf of the people of Illinois, thank you for your generosity."

"State Farm is pleased to contribute to this worthwhile project and to reinforce our company's commitment to enhancing the education of youth and adults alike," Matlock said.

"At the same time, we're honored to help preserve the monumental legacy of Abraham Lincoln and the heritage of Central Illinois—where State Farm proudly calls home," Matlock added.

The Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum is a $115 million project that is a partnership of the State of Illinois, the City of Springfield and the federal government. The complex will house the world's largest collection of Lincoln artifacts and documents, as well as state-of-the-art exhibits that bring Lincoln's legacy to life.

The Library and Museum complex will be located in downtown Springfield, a few blocks from several important historic sites: Illinois' Old State Capitol, where Lincoln served in the General Assembly, his former law offices, the only home he ever owned and the railroad depot where he made his famous farewell speech to his hometown.

"We are confident that in a few short years the Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum will become the international focal point of study and research about the great man," Mrs. Ryan said. "Families exploring history where it happened will use the Library and Museum to bring a new perspective to their experience in Springfield. And school children will find Lincoln's life and times come alive before their eyes through the use of modern technology."

The brakes on the van failed, causing the accident. Schmitz was charged with driving with a suspended license, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, defective brakes and destruction of property in an accident. She is to appear at Grayslake Branch III on March 14 at 3 p.m. Frawley, who was allegedly aware that her daughter's license was suspended and that the brakes needed repair, was charged with permitting an unauthorized person to drive her vehicle.

No license

Heather C. Mondragon, 22, of 14 Meade Ct. in Fox Lake, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Feb. 22 at 8:58 p.m. on Grand Ave. and Park Ave. when she was observed driving with a loud muffler. She was charged with a muffler violation and driving without a license. Her court date was set for March 14 at 1:30 p.m. at Grayslake Branch III.

File taxes on the Internet

Record numbers of Illinoisans are turning to the Internet to file their Illinois taxes this year, and three out of four are using direct deposit to get their refunds in about a week.

"Taxpayers who chose our Internet (I-File) program were able to file electronically for free, get their refunds in about a week, and not have to cash a check," said Glen Bower, Director of Revenue.

Other advantages to Internet filing include confirmation numbers that taxpayers can use to prove filing, electronic edits that reduce errors, and the convenience of filling 24 hours per day, Bower said.

So far this year, 15,706 taxpayers have filed through the Department of Revenue's I-File program, 36 percent more than at the same time last year.

Approximately three out of four Illinoisans can use the I-File as a pilot program twice as many as could use the program last year.

The Department of Revenue introduced I-File as a pilot program in 1999 and it was used by 11,190 taxpayers. Last year, 43,538 taxpayers used the Internet to file their Illinois tax returns.

Qualifications for I-File, and all other electronic filing programs, are listed in Illinois Income Tax booklets and on the department's web site at www.revenue.state.il.us. Taxpayers can select an option that works for them.

Internet filers need their personal identification number (IL-PIN) that was assigned to taxpayers who filed returns in 2000. The IL-PIN was included with the tax booklets.

Taxpayers who filed a return last year but did not receive a booklet can get their IL-PIN from the department's web site or by calling (800) 732-8866. Taxpayers should have their driver's license available.

I-File is one of four electronic filing options that the Department of Revenue offers, each of which will provide refunds in about a week when taxpayers use direct deposit:

•TeleFile – free filing via touch-tone telephone,

•e-File – filing through a tax preparer, and,

•retail software, filing through commercial packages like Turbo Tax or TaxCut.

So far this filing season, more than 460,000 taxpayers have filed their returns electronically, and 122,000 have chosen to have their refunds direct deposited in their bank accounts.

Working Together

For Antioch

The fire within

Ckrebo, Ckrebo, Ckrebo! The familiar cries heard from the usual partisan crowd on hand for one of Warren High's varsity boys basketball games.

Fact is, every team needs a guy like Ckrebo on its roster.

You have your main go-to guys, but when it comes down to it, and we're talking post-season play, guys like Ckrebo can be a thorn in the opposition's side.

"When I hear that, it just gets me going," said the 6-3 senior forward. "It's like I put on a mask. I love the role of being aggressive."

And while Ckrebo might not have the mind-boggling stats, it's his mere presence that gives the recently-crowned NSC champs that extra lift.

"He (Ckrebo) always comes in and gives it his all," said head coach Chuck Ramsey. "He makes big plays and gives us a big lift."

Ckrebo is usually second or third off the bench. Whenever he does come in, he instantly makes his presence felt.

Typifying Ckrebo's play was during a late-season showdown with Lake Forest a couple of weeks ago. His lay-up and big rebound that followed off a missed Scout three-point attempt helped preserve a 35-31 victory.

"I don't know - it (being aggressive) just comes in me," he said afterwards.

Ckrebo wound up finishing with eight points and three boards.

For the season, he is averaging three points and two rebounds.

But more importantly, perhaps, is a stat that never shows up in the box score - being able to take an offensive charge when your team needs the ball back.

"It's all positioning," said Ckrebo, who leads the team with 10 charges taken on the season.

And when he's on the bench and eager to get into the game, "I just try to watch and keep my head in the game."

Sounds like some of the ingredients all of us could incorporate into our game.

Congratulations to Taveirne Middle School in Ingleside, which placed fifth out of nine teams at the Deer Path wrestling tournament, held in Lake Forest.

Individual first-place winners for the Warriors included Cory Greenhill at 60 pounds, Daniel Dennis (80 lbs.) and Toby Temple. Second-place efforts were turned in by Shelby Temple (70 lbs.) and Jeff Fisher (75 lbs.).

Also finishing in the top-5 included C.J. Homuth (60 lbs.) and Chris Wicinski (65 lbs.) third, and Jeremy Reimer fourth (90 lbs.).

Kudos to Thunderhawk Golf Club's Mark Petitgoue for being recognized as one of the 2001 ESA (Environmental Steward Awards) Merit Winners by the GCSAA (Golf Course Superintendent's Association of America).

Petitgoue was honored along with 74 other national, chapter or merit winners at the GCSAA's 72nd International Golf Course Conference and Show in Dallas, Texas last week.

The ESA recognizes golf course superintendents for overall course management excellence in the areas of technology use, resource conservation, water quality management, integrated pest management, wildlife/habitat management and education and outreach.

And congratulations to Libertyville's Courtney Dydo, Carmel's Megan Lick and Antioch's Alex Mika. All three advanced to the next round of the IHSA Class AA Three-point Showdown. At the Mundelein sectional finals Feb. 22, Dydo canned 11 trey's, Lick nine, and Mika eight.

Correction: My apologies for inadvertently leaving Esther Handyside's name out of the Warren varsity girls gymnastics story in the 2-23 edition. Esther was a part of the Devils state runner-up team and will be returning next season.

John Phelps can be reached at (847) 223-8161, ext. 132; fax (847) 223-8810; or e-mail at edit@lnd.com.

Antioch's Ipsen sterling at Winter X-Games

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

Picture the heart-pounding jumps made on dirt tracks by drivers on souped-up dirt bikes. Only replace the dirt with snow and the souped-up dirt bikes with souped-up snowmobiles and you've just made the transition from motocross to Snocross.

Antioch-resident Kent Ipsen, 24, has made the transition and has turned a part-time hobby into a very successful professional career.

Ipsen, a 1994 graduate of Antioch Community High School, currently races out of Goodwin Performance in Zion, which is his main sponsor.

"I started riding Snocross four years ago," said Ipsen. "I wanted to try it, I did good and I kept going at it."

Since turning professional four years ago, Ipsen was named the 1999/2000 World Snocross Association (WSA) Pro Rookie of the Year and has won several races on the circuit.

Ipsen is currently ninth in the WSA Snocross Worldwide Feather Lite Pro Stock circuit standings and is fifth in the Bud Light Pro Open standings.

Perhaps the biggest accomplishment of his career came in Mount Snow, VT at the 2001 ESPN Winter X-Games on Feb. 2.

For the third straight year, Ipsen competed in the Snocross competition, but this time around Ipsen finished second to take home a silver medal.

"It felt pretty cool to win," said Ipsen. "I was really nervous all week and it was nice to come out with a good finish."

But the week's success was without hardships. Ipsen suffered a crash in the second-round of qualifying but still managed to finish 13th out of 32 riders.

Antioch's Kent Ipsen, a 1994 graduate of Antioch High School, has made quite a name for himself in Snocross competition. Above, Ipsen competes in the 2001 ESPN Winter X-Games in Mount Snow, VT. Ipsen wound up bringing home the silver medal.

After three rounds of qualifying, the top-16 were split into two semi-finals. Ipsen finished third in his semi-final and qualified for the finals in fifth-place out of eight finalists.

At the start of the final, Ipsen passed two riders to snatch third-place. He held the position for much of the race until the leader's sled had a mechanical failure causing him to drop out of the race.

The failure enabled Ipsen to cross the finish line in second-place and capture the silver medal.

Although Ipsen considered the X-Games to be just another race, he did recognize the significance of the strong finish.

"The riders are a lot more competitive at the X-Games," said Ipsen. "The X-Games get a lot more coverage."

White shines as Sequoit boys oust Wauconda

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Word has spread throughout the North Suburban Conference about the talents of Antioch's Eric White.

He is the senior leader for the Sequoits, coming off a 20-point and solid defensive game as Antioch beat Wauconda 54-41 in the regional opener.

But these Sequoits do have some depth as they prepare to face No. 1 seed Warren in Gurnee. The likes of Eric Langner, Tom Woodruff, Brian Walsh and Josh Bonner gave Antioch too much depth for the Bulldogs to handle.

Wauconda executed its game plan to perfection for nine minutes. The Bulldogs, 13-12, were thinking upset when Brad Breakfield gave them a 16-6 lead nine minutes in to the game.

"We just wanted to get out on defense and pressure the ball. Walsh really stepped it up and Langer and Woodruff got some rebounds," White said.

Of the Warren assignment on March 2? "We will just go all-out. We have nothing to lose," he said.

"We will go and play hard. Warren is at the top of its game. There are no weaknesses. We know we have to stop them, but we also focus on what we do best," Dresser said.

Warren trounced Round Lake 52-38 in the first round Tuesday.

The Bulldogs made the Sequoits take perimeter shots, unfortunately for the visitors, a 5-5 stretch from beyond the arc could not be countered, although Wauconda was not officially put away until about two minutes to play.

A trey by Mike Munson, his second of the quarter, gave Wauconda a 14-6 lead early on.

The barrage of treys was started by White's second of the night. Walsh hit two and White did as well to turn the second-quarter tied, a 15-0 Antioch run.

"Eric is a good offensive player, but also plays well on defense. He has been like that for four years," said coach Jeff Dresser.

"Our bench did a great job. Walsh hit a couple of threes, and Allen Patin did a nice job," Dresser said.

Walsh, a 6-3 junior guard, finished with 12 points. Langner added 6 points off the bench, and senior Ari Brown had 7 second-half points.

Bonner, junior Jeff Huebner and Langner did the job defensively in the post.

Wauconda was trailing only by four points on a hoop by leading scorer Tim Bailey (13 points). But some costly mistakes led to an eight-point Antioch lead after three. Woodruff hit a spinning shot and Brown had two free-throws. A scoop shot by Langer opened up a 10-point lead to start the fourth quarter. WHS could get not closer than seven points the rest of the way.

The game marked the end of the line for Wauconda seniors Bailey, Ron Christians (11 points), Munson (7 points), Patrick Gallivan, Nate Armstrong. They gave their team their first winning season in decades, 13-12 overall.

"We made some gains this year. This was a No. 17 seed last year, now we are No. 9. Ron did a tremendous job, and Tim was consistent on offense. Mike came a long way on defense," coach Rich Wolf said.

"They just wore us down," Wolf said of Antioch.

ACHS' Wolfgram has a big presence but a quiet demeanor

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

Looking back upon her freshman and sophomore years, Antioch senior center Shelley Wolfgram would have never thought it possible to be named All-Conference.

But after an honorable mention in her junior season, Wolfgram responded by averaging eight points, nine rebounds, three blocks and two assists per game in her senior season.

Those numbers earned her a spot on the North Suburban All-Conference team.

"It feels great," said Wolfgram of being named to the All-Conference team. "It was one of my goals and I figured that if I worked hard I could do it."

Although Wolfgram is a big presence in the middle at 6-1, she has a very quiet demeanor both on and off the court.

Head coach Don Zeman credits Wolfgram with being the floor leader, a job that usually lies with a guard, and with leading not by words but by example.

"She was like a coach on the floor," said Zeman. "Everyone loved and respected her."

Zeman especially credits Wolfgram with taking junior Erica Brown and sophomore Starla Williams under her wing.

"Players like Erica and Starla learned from Shelley and picked up her good habits," said Zeman.

Wolfgram also feels that she did a lot to help her other teammates, especially Brown and Williams.

"I worked really well with Erica, we passed the ball to each other a lot in the post," said Wolfgram. "I was a little more vocal with Starla. I kept having to tell her not to go over the back on rebounds."

The biggest difference this season for Wolfgram was that she was able to have fun. First year head coach Don Zeman was to thank for that.

"I had a tough time the last two years with [former Antioch coach] Dave Woods," said Wolfgram. "Being coached by Zeman was a blessing, he made the season a lot more fun."

Although Wolfgram's playing days at have come to an end, she plans to continue playing at either Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis. or North Central College in Naperville where she plans to major in business.

First National plans day trips

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBE) travel club, Eagle 50 Travelers Club, has upcoming day trips for Onedia Bingo on March 14 and the Chicago Flower and Garden Show on March 18. Plans for a larger trip to Austria this fall will be presented on at the bank on April 4.

FNBE has teamed up with the Antioch business Bernie on the Go to provide a better tour service for the club.

"We are very excited to be working with Bernie," said marketing director for the bank Karen Kubin. "Bernie is a businesswoman who has been providing both day trip and extended travel opportunities to the community for over 10 years. Planning trips through her will allow us to provide our travelers club with a wider variety of trips and with greater frequency than we could do on our own."

This year there will be bi-monthly casino trips, as well as an additional trip to see a play or something along the lines of the flower show.

The upcoming trips still have limited space available. "The trips are for all ages," said Kubin. "We offer special discounts for FNBE Eagle 50 members, however."

Registration is required for non-members and members alike who want to take advantage of the planned activities. For more information about the March day trips, or about becoming an Eagle 50 member, contact Kubin at 838-2265.

"We went to the flower show last year, and there was a full bus," said Kubin. "Everyone had a really nice time."

The meeting for the Austria trip will take place at 10 a.m. in the lower level of the bank. "Bingo prizes and refreshments will served after the presentation," Kubin added.

Eagle 50 memberships are package accounts that include additional benefits for those 50 years old and over.

Memories of Kris

He never woke us up in the middle of the night to let us know the house was on fire. Nor did he ever attack any would-be burglars trying to break into our home. He wasn't a remarkable dog, in that sense. In fact, I guess you could say he really wasn't all that remarkable at all. His name was Kris, and he was the best dog we ever owned.

It was a Sunday afternoon. My wife Mary was looking through the classified ads. "Listen to this," she said. "Golden Retriever puppies. Three males left. Going on vacation. Must sell." We called the number in the ad and before long, the two of us, along with our three grade-school-age children were off to a nearby town to look at the pups.

We arrived just before sundown. The owner must have seen us pull into the driveway, for no sooner had we gotten out of the car then he appeared from around the side of the house with a fluffy Golden Retriever puppy in his arms. He handed the dog to me as the children eagerly reached up to touch it. It wasn't long before the air was filled with cries of "Oh, how cute" and "Hey, he just licked my hand!"

While the children were petting the puppy, I asked the man if we could see the other two. "This is the only one left," he said. It seemed we had a choice of one.

After looking at the puppy's wagging tail and the "Please Dad" looks on our children's faces, it was an easy decision to make. We quickly completed the transaction and climbed back into our car.

We named him Kristopher Kolumbus because he was an inquisitive puppy and was always investigating new places around our house.

I realized early on that Kris had remarkable intelligence. One day, while playing with him in our yard, he ran one way around a large spruce while I went the other way. When we met head-on on the other side of the tree, Kris looked more startled than I had ever seen him look before or since. He had expected me to be right behind him, not directly in front of him.

A few minutes later the same scenario occurred and I tried to surprise Kris once again. However, after seeing it only once, he had already grown wise to my trick. When I rounded the far side of the tree, there he was, waiting patiently for me to arrive. "Gotcha!" he seemed to say as he wagged his tail and enjoyed the surprised look on my face.

Like most retrievers, Kris loved the water. He was always eager to swim out to fetch a stick or a ball that we had thrown into a lake or a pond. He even tried to retrieve ducks - who always seemed to tease him with great delight.

He'd swim out to a flock of resting ducks, becoming more and more excited and encouraged as he drew ever closer. But the ducks were playing an age-old

The Chicago Botanic Garden will be the gallery setting for an exhibit of landscape paintings by renowned British artist Ben Whitehouse. His mural-sized paintings as well as his preliminary oil sketches will be on display in the Education Center from March 3 through April 8 during the Garden's WinterGreen Festival. The artist will be present for an opening reception on Sunday, March 4 at 3 p.m. and will return on Saturday, March 17 at 3 p.m. to give a lecture on his artwork. Visitors to the exhibit will have the opportunity to view and purchase the works on display.

Ben Whitehouse paints a variety of picturesque landscapes that capture the beauty and majesty of untouched nature. The moors outside Scotland's Cawdor Castle, Saugatuck, Oxbow Lagoon in Michigan, and the waterways at the Chicago Botanic Garden are among the subjects painted by Whitehouse. It has often been said that the artist brings a fresh perspective to his Midwestern subjects, finding beauty in locations often overlooked or disregarded by those who tend to think of their environment as 'dull or flat.' The paintings of Ben Whitehouse have been shown in London, New York, Washington D.C. as well as at the Cultural Center in Chicago. The artist received his MFA 1991 from the University of Chicago, and has lectured at The School of the Art Institute, University of Chicago and Northwestern University.

The Chicago Botanic Garden's WinterGreen festival celebrates the beauty of winter with indoor and outdoor programming on the weekends. Activities include nature and garden walks, demonstrations, art exhibits, gardening classes, special lectures, musical entertainment, and family activities. Admission to the Garden is free. Parking is $7 for non-members. For more information, contact the Chicago Botanic Garden at 835-5440 or visit our website at www.chicagobotanic.org.

game with him. No sooner would he be within six feet of a mouthful of feathers, then the ducks would swim away, some of them quacking quietly as if saying, "You dumb dog, you'll never catch us."

They were right, of course, but Kris never lost interest in trying to prove them wrong. One memorable time, he followed a flock around for nearly 45 minutes as they led him in circles and figure-eights and teased him by letting him close the gap to only a few feet.

As Kris grew older, his health gradually deteriorated. At the age of 13, his lack of muscle strength and deteriorated motor skills made it difficult for him to get to his feet and walk even a few yards. Sadly, we realized one morning that his time had come at last.

I left work early that day to take him to the vet. When I arrived home to pick him up, Kris had a worn and haggard look on his face. As our eyes met, I felt we were communicating on a level that I had never experienced before. It was as if he were telling me that he knew it was time to go and that it was alright. It was a feeling I will never forget.

The vet was a kindly man who came out to my truck where Kris was lying on the floor. He administered the injection while I scratched and patted Kris' head. In less than 10 seconds it was over.

My drive home that day was a tearful one with Kris lying on the floor next to me.

I dug a grave for him in a shady spot in our backyard. Kris never did like to lie in the sun and I like to think he is happy there.

Mary arrived home as I was finishing digging Kris' grave and we cried many tears together over the loss of our beloved family pet. Then, I gently lifted him from my truck and laid him to rest.

Later, I made a wooden marker for his grave in my workshop. I thought of adding words like "The Best Ever" or "A Great Dog," but nothing I could think of seemed appropriate. So his grave marker reads simply, "Kris, 1987-2000."

This spring we will plant flowers on his grave after his first winter beneath the ground. We will revive 13 years of wonderful memories, and we will shed some more tears. And every time I pass that spot as I'm mowing the lawn this summer I will think fondly of him.

But life goes on. It always does.

On a Sunday afternoon about a month after we lost Kris, Mary was looking on the Internet for breeders of Golden Retrievers. "Listen to this," she said, and before long we were driving to a small town in Wisconsin to pick up an eight-week-old female puppy who has since become our adorable little Rosebud and the beginning of yet another story.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Think before you act when it comes to a personal situation early in the week, Aries. Don't just follow your emotions. You need to consider the consequences of your actions. If you don't, you're guaranteed to make everything much worse. A loved one turns to you for romantic advice. Be honest with him or her.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Try to stay calm this week. You have quite a lot to do, and worrying about inconsequential things only will add to your stress. Just set your priorities, and work diligently to get things done. That's the only way to make progress. Don't be afraid to ask that special someone for help if you need it. He or she is always there for you.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

A close friend tries to make you change your mind about a financial matter. Don't let him or her talk you into doing something with which you don't agree. Stand your ground. You know the pros and cons of this situation, and you're the only one who can decide what is best for you. Sagittarius plays an important role.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Keep your feelings to yourself when it comes to a business decision that a colleague makes this week. This person has total control here. Voicing your displeasure won't change the situation; it only will make you look like a sore loser. A loved one needs a shoulder to cry on. Do what you can.

Leo - July 23/August 23

A close friend turns to you for advice about a personal problem, Leo. Don't be afraid to give your opinion — even if you know that he or she might not like what you have to say. Your honesty will be appreciated. You meet someone interesting on Tuesday. Get to know him or her better.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Several business associates are counting on you to finish an important task this week, Virgo. Don't crack under the pressure. Just stay focused, and work diligently. If you do, you're sure to get everything done on time.

That special someone asks you an interesting question on Thursday. Be honest with him or her.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't be fooled by an acquaintance early in the week. He or she is trying to get you involved in a sticky situation by lying to you. Examine everything that this person says before agreeing to do anything for him or her.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

Now is the time for you to make an important family decision, Scorpio. You have put it off long enough. You finally must make a choice. Do what is best for everyone involved. Ask that special someone for advice if you need it. A close friend requests your help with a personal problem. Do what you can for him or her.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Be honest when a business associate confronts you about a situation at work, Sagittarius. Tell this person exactly what is going on and just how you feel. It's the only way to rectify the situation. Your openness will be rewarded. Taurus plays an important role on Wednesday.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't be shy when you meet an interesting person on Tuesday. He or she has the ability to make you a potentially lucrative offer. So, get to know this person better. Just be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. A loved one wants to take you out late in the week. Say yes, because it will be fun.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Keep your eyes and ears open when out with loved ones during the middle of the week, Aquarius. They are keeping something from you. Try to learn what it is. If you stay calm and don't seem too eager, you're sure to get the information out of them.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

While you would like to help a co-worker who gets into trouble early in the week, Pisces, don't. This person is in a very difficult situation, and your involvement only will make matters worse. So, stay out of it. Libra plays a key role in all of this.

'The Mexican' offers something for everyone

As trite as it may sound, the first pairing of Julia Roberts and Brad Pitt in "The Mexican" truly offers something for everyone.

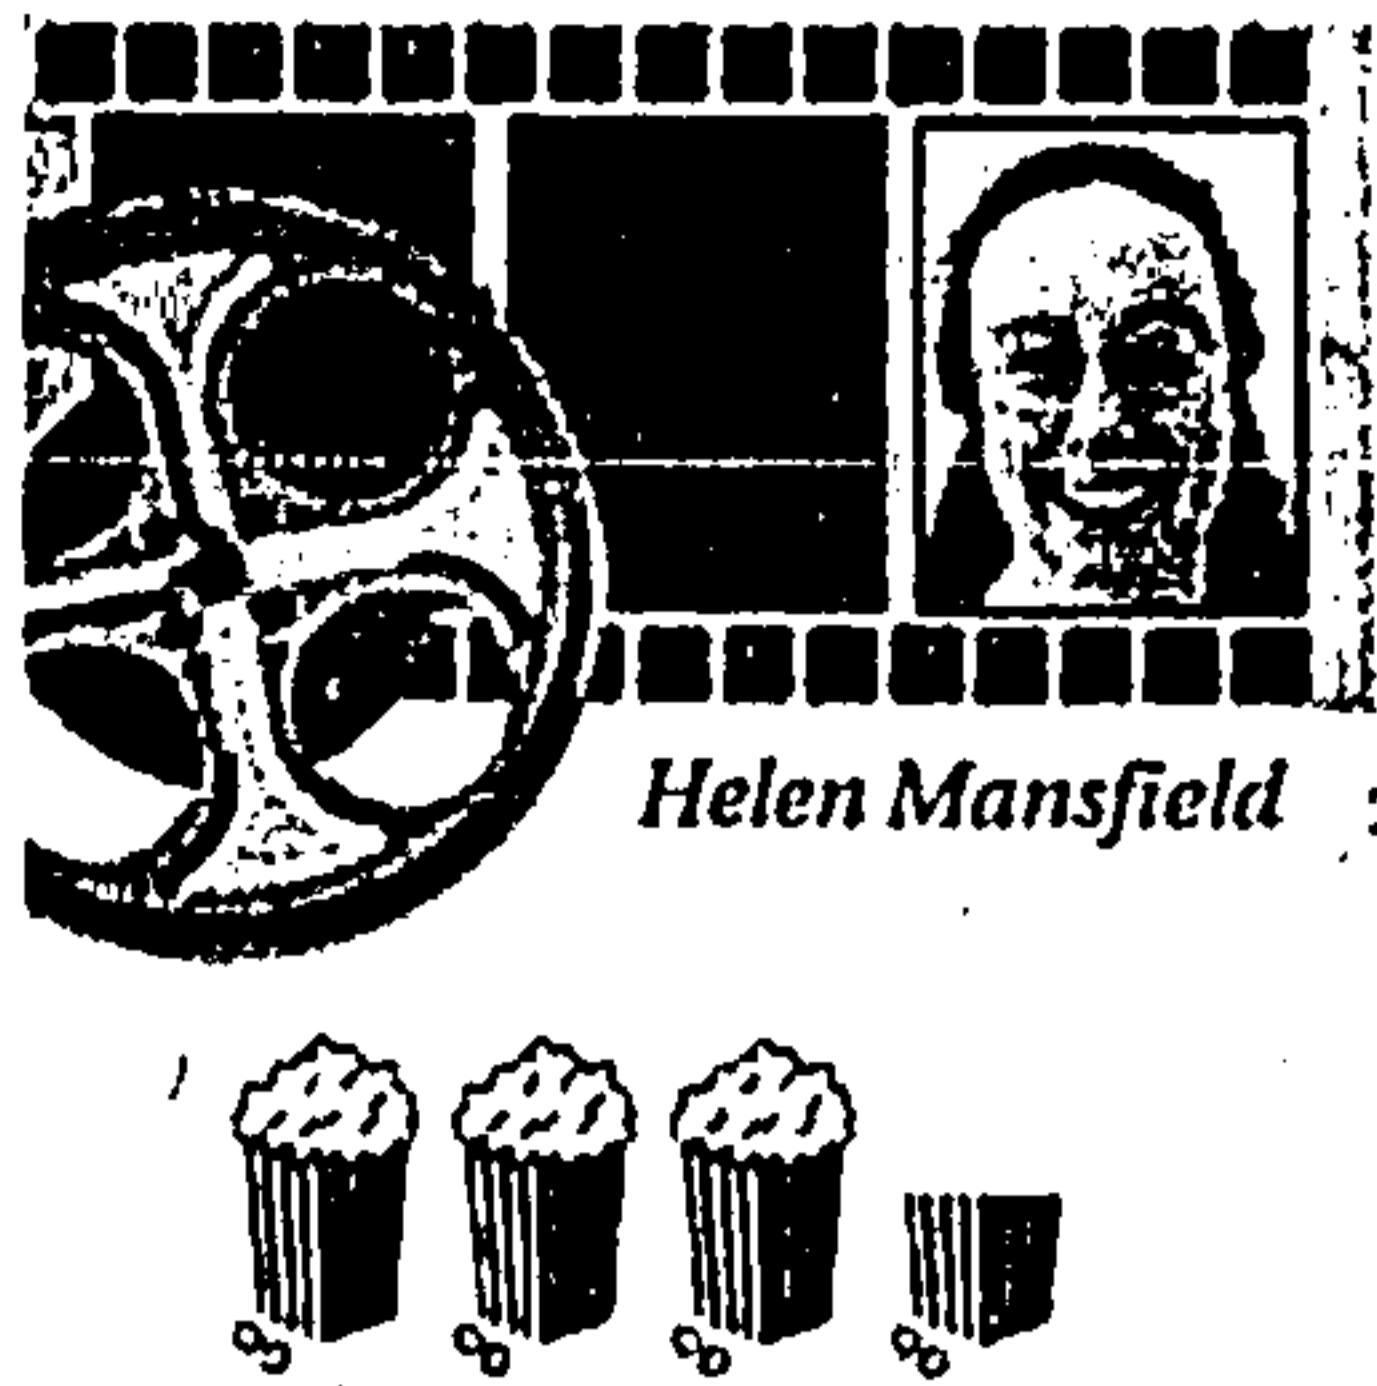

The film has been described as a modern day caper movie, with a variety of plot twists, but at the center of the story is a sweet "boy loses girl and must get her back" romance.

The story is about Jerry (Pitt) and his girlfriend Samantha (Roberts).

Jerry is a well-meaning, but patently unlucky guy who is in the process of leaving his job with seedy underworld types. Having bungled his last job with them, he has to complete one more job, which is to go to Mexico and acquire an antique pistol for his as yet unseen boss. The pistol is called "The Mexican."

Meanwhile, back at their Los Angeles apartment sits Sam. She and Jerry are planning on moving to Las Vegas where Sam plans to become a waitress, eventually working herself up to card dealer.

movie review

When Jerry returns to tell her he has one more job to do or he's dead, she doesn't take it very well and leaves for Las Vegas without him.

Enter Leroy, played by James Gandolfini of HBO's "The Sopranos" fame.

Leroy picks up Sam along her trip to ensure that Jerry gets the pistol and hands it over to the proper people and to, as he put it, "regulate the funkiness."

Brad Pitt and Julia Roberts share a magical, romantic relationship in "The Mexican."

just plain dumb dealing with their potentially dangerous situations and their relationship in general.

What impressed me the most with the movie, was the realistic nature of the relationships. Not to disappoint audiences, but Pitt and Roberts do not share much screen time together, but what they do is magical. They're gritty and simple, and they honestly seem to be a couple.

Gandolfini's character Leroy is a tough mob type, in the same vein as his Tony Soprano character, with some notable exceptions.

Without ruining anything, I'll just say this is the most sensitive we've ever seen Gandolfini, but you never forget for an instant who he is and if you cross him, he'll snap you like a twig.

This is the perfect date movie. The guys will get a good action movie, compete with shoot-outs and Julia Roberts and the ladies will have a nice romance with Brad Pitt.

Did I mention Brad Pitt was in it? This movie earns three-and-one-half popcorn boxes.

THEATRE REVIEW

Marriott treats kids to live 'Pinocchio'

Today's children take Disney's awesome fairytale telling, as well as a movie or TV screen filled with George Lucas' "impossible" special effects, for granted.

So, it is refreshing when the faces of the kids light up with merriment as the Blue Fairy brings Pinocchio to life at the latest production of Marriott's Theatre For Young Audiences.

Their enjoyment proves that there is still nothing like live storytelling, whether it's Mom reading you a bedtime story, or a live stage performance.

A very talented troupe of performers bring to life the legendary tale of the wooden puppet who becomes "a real live boy" at the Marriott in Lincolnshire, through May 19.

Marc Robin, who wrote the book, music and lyrics for the show, and its director Dyanne Early make this classic story educational as well as enjoyable, showing the value of honesty, love and unselfish heroism.

The interaction between the audience and the actors during a question and answer period after the show is also a teaching lesson, which explains why many grade schools make going to the children's theatre a field trip.

Minimalistic simplicity is the byword here with the Blue Fairy dancing onto the stage instead of flying, and Pinocchio's growing nose operated by the actor's touch instead of a remote control.

All in all, treating children to such pleasant live stage storytelling is a special childhood adventure, a great idea for an unusual birthday party.—by Gloria Davis

Even the whale's belly is created with darkness, smoke, a rocking raft, and sound effects. A ceiling filled with stars becomes a well used segue.

Gheppetto's friend, G. Hopper, the cricket, played by Patrick Gagnon, steals the show more than once with his merry antics.

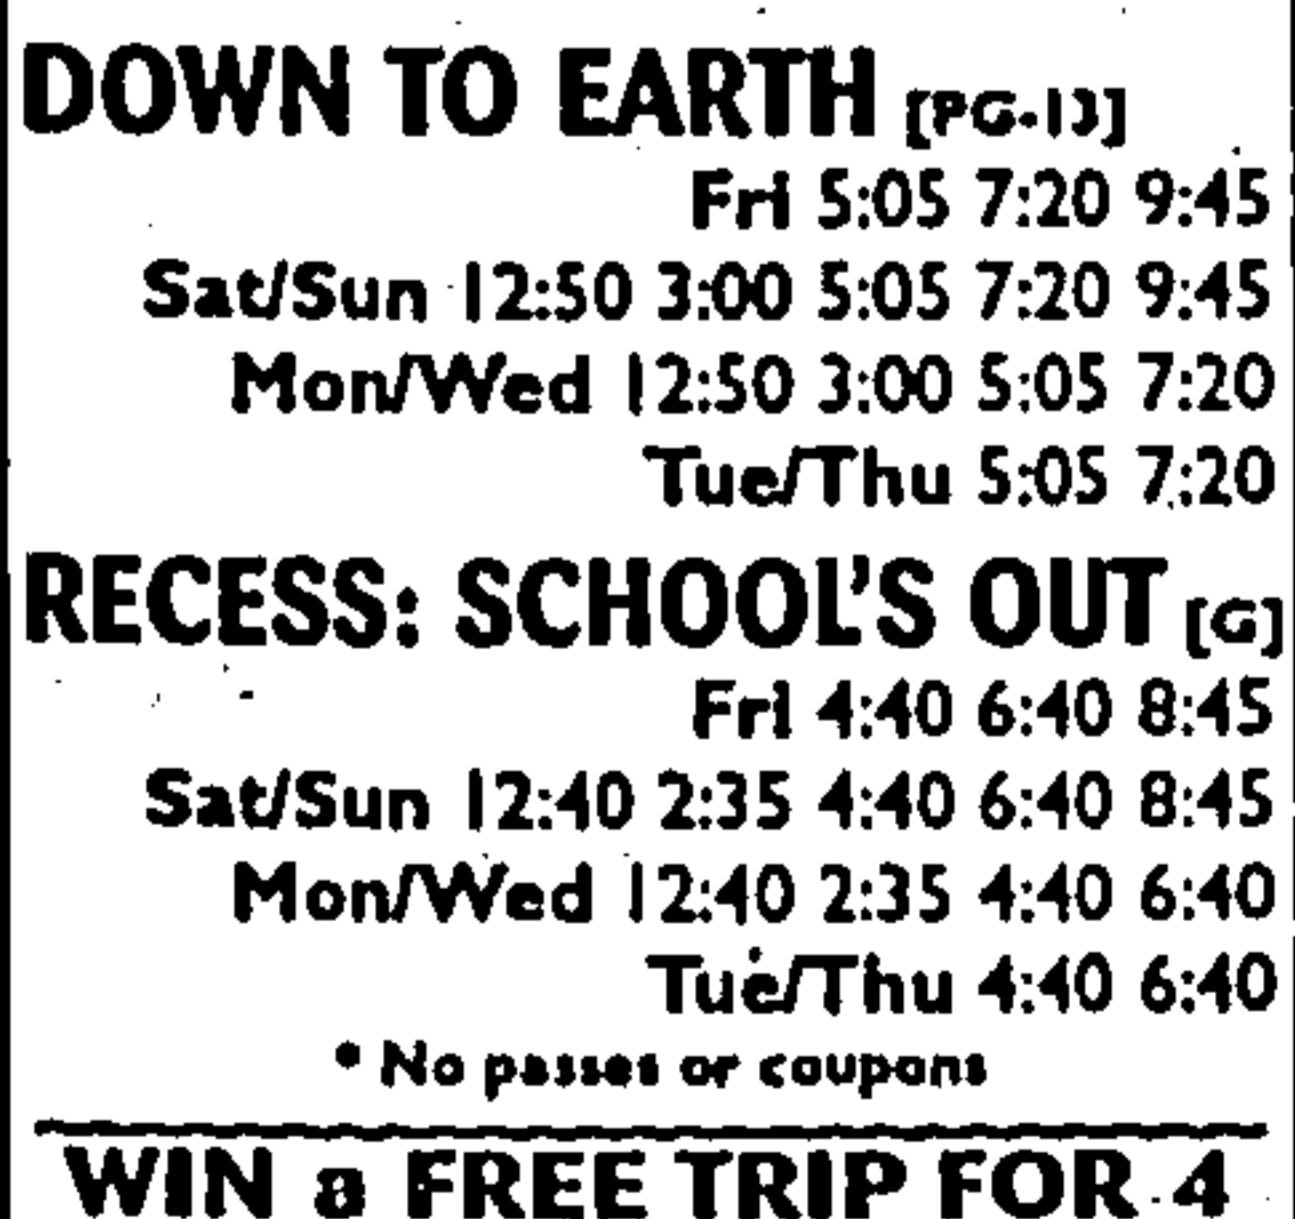

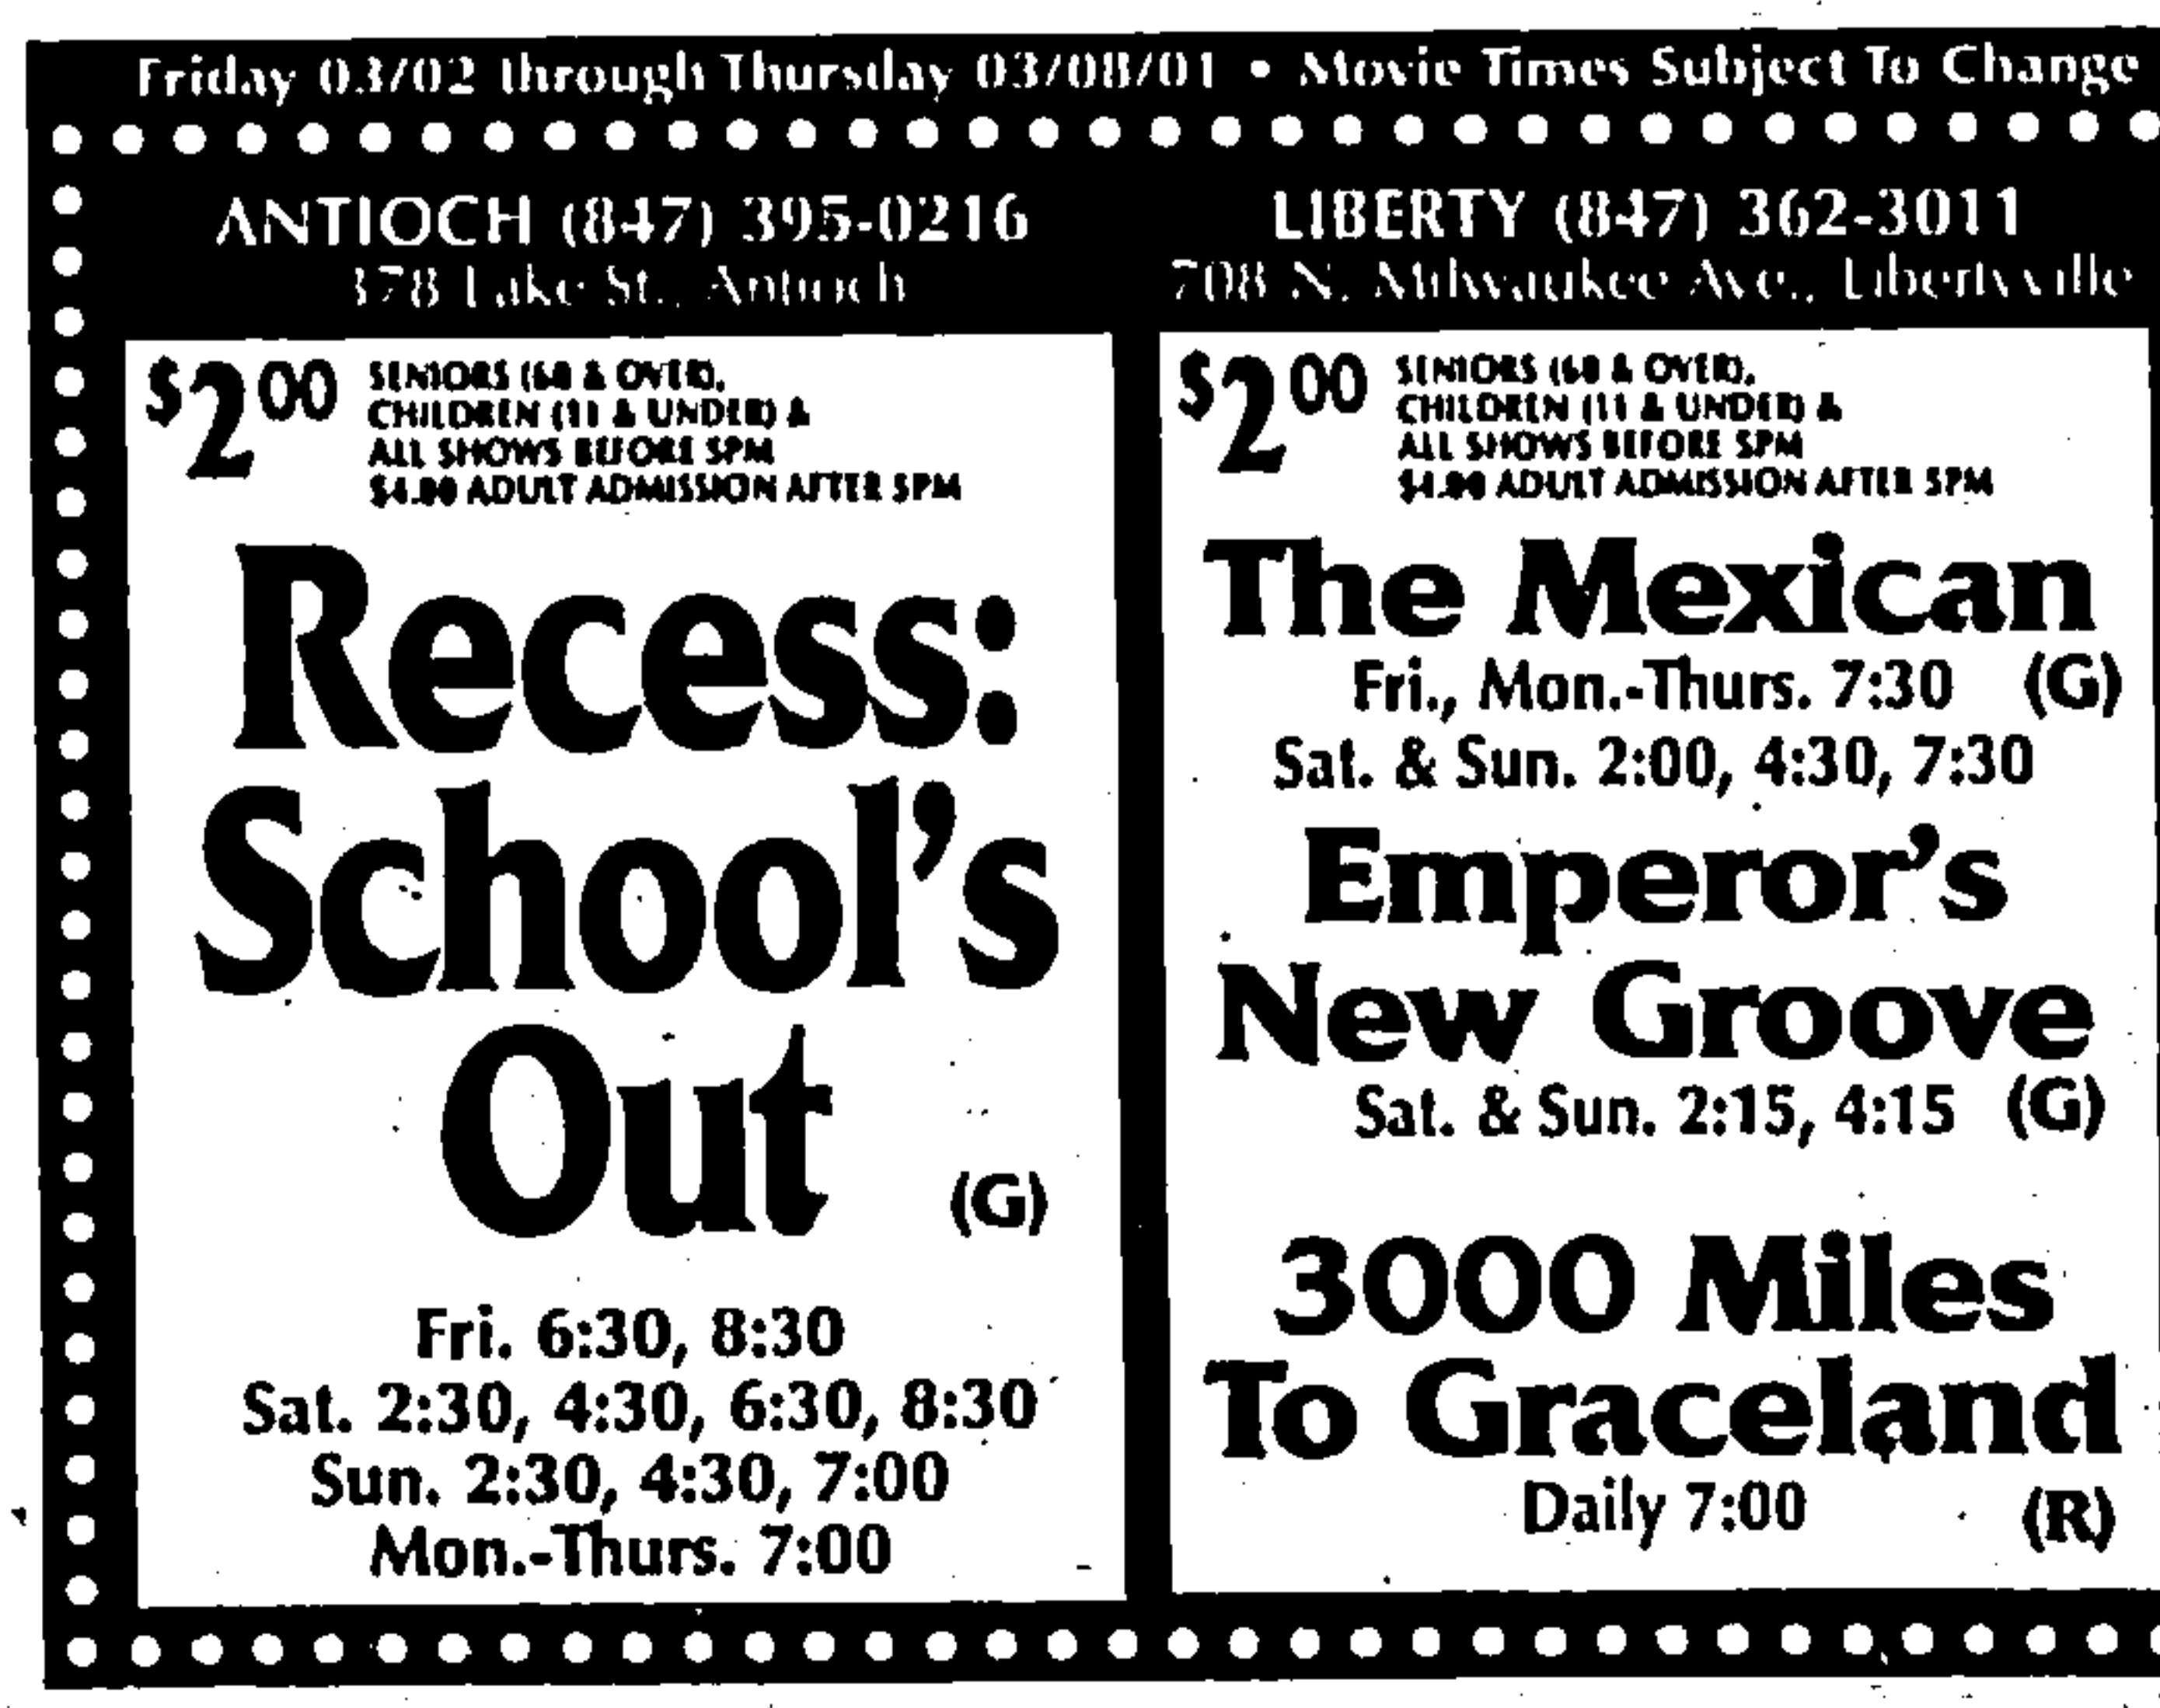

George Keating and Cristen Paige dance and sing their way into the children's hearts as the duo fox and kitten, unhappily working for Stephen Full, who is sufficiently hateful as the villain Stromboli, Michael Haws' Gheppetto fills the bill, as do Aaron Thielen and his gang of errant boys who end up being turned into donkeys.

All the singing voices, especially that of Angela Berra as the Blue Fairy, are up to Marriott's usual high standards.

Daniel Tatar's well sung and acted Pinocchio turns out to be the controversial one as far as my grandchildren were concerned.

The fact that the live puppet is bigger than his father was "OK because he was the most important person in the play," according to one. Another was confused by the transformation into a "real live boy," which seemed to be more of a change to a real live man.

All in all, treating children to such pleasant live stage storytelling is a special childhood adventure, a great idea for an unusual birthday party.—by Gloria Davis

Spring garden classes offered

The University of Illinois Extension in Lake County has added four gardening classes to its spring schedule. All four classes will be offered in March and will be taught by Extension Horticulturist Sharon Yiesla. The classes are as follows:

Ornamental Grasses — Monday, March 5, 7-9 p.m. Learn about one of the newest trends in gardening, ornamental grasses. Find out what they are, how to grow them and how they can be used in the garden. A number of different grass species will be featured.

Roses — Thursday, March 8, 7-9 p.m. Learn the basics of rose care. This presentation explains how to select and plant roses. It also explains general maintenance such as watering, fertilizing, pruning and winter protection. Information on classes of roses and rose pests will also be presented.

Garden Design and Landscape Basics — Thursday, March 15, 7-9 p.m. You've spent a great deal of time deciding which plants you want. How can you use those plants to make a beautiful garden? Learn the principles of design that will help you create a special landscape. This presentation will cover the basics of designing with flowers as well as proper placement of trees and shrubs for best effect.

Basic Perennial Gardening — Monday, March 19, 7-9 p.m. Perennial gardening is extremely popular. If you would like to join this trend, but don't know much about perennials, this class is for you. The presentation will cover selecting, planting and caring for perennials. A number of common perennials suitable for northern Illinois will be featured in a slide presentation.

These classes are offered at no charge. Advance registration is required for all sessions. To register call the Extension office at 223-8627. All sessions will be held at the Extension office in Grayslake.

'Friendly growth' aim of township candidates

Getting large tract property owners involved early in comprehensive planning can have a beneficial impact on controlling growth and development.

That's the contention of an attorney and a retired school teacher who wants to channel development in rural Fremont Township, one of Lake County's last major open space areas, along lines that are environmentally friendly and acceptable to neighbors desiring to maintain rural character.

Fremont Township is in the center of the growth areas of Mundelein, Grayslake, Waukegan and Hawthorn Woods.

Lorraine "Rainey" Ray, an attorney who resides near Fairchild Rd. in rural Waukegan, and Robert "Bob" Bohl of Mundelein, a retired high school teacher, have pooled their resources to run for trustee seats on the township board to implement their vision of "friendly development."

An illustration of their idea of "friendly growth" was action taken by Ray and her brothers to sell their family farm on Erhart Rd. near Fremont Center, to the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. The preserve of rolling farm land

County avoids chad problems

By HELEN MANSFIELD
Staff Reporter

In light of November's presidential election problems in Florida, a lot of election boards nationwide are looking to get away from paper and lever balloting.

By coincidence, Lake County will be moving to an optical scan voting for the April 3 consolidated elections.

According to Lake County Clerk Willard Helander, the optical ballot idea was one that she made in 1996 to the county board.

Lake County voters will now mark an optical scan ballot and insert the ballot into a polling place ballot box that will count the ballot as it is inserted.

The official optical scan ballot is a single sheet of paper issued to the voter along with a marking pen. The voter is instructed to completely color in the oval next to the name of the candidate of their choice.

Helander said the process is as easy as filling in the bubbles on a lottery ticket.

She said the decision to change came from necessity as one election used 228 punch positions on the ballot.

"We were maxed for space," said Helander. "If we had one more question to add to the ballot, we would have had to print on the back."

Following the Florida fiasco, Helander said everyone is familiar with the term "butterfly ballot" and the confusion it can cause for voters.

The new voting system also offers a new safeguard for voters should they mistakenly

Kirk congratulates Pebble Brook for care and concern

By JOHN KOSKI
Managing Editor

Congressman Mark Kirk congratulated the staff of Pebble Brook Nursing and Rehabilitation Centre for their lifesaving act for Jackie Ritchie. Ritchie had been living alone in Waukegan and was in desperate need of care, but was denied deserved care due to inadequate insurance coverage.

After seeing an ad for Pebble Brook, Ritchie called and was immediately put in touch with Peggy Lowther, director of nursing. Lowther traveled to Ritchie's home to assess her. As a result, Assistant Administrator Aaron Notterman admitted Ritchie the next day despite her inadequate insurance coverage.

equate insurance coverage.

Kirk was instrumental in finding coverage for Ritchie. Pebble Brook followed Kirk's advice by filing for reconsideration in the Social Security office. During a visit to Pebble Brook, Kirk personally acknowledged the kindness that Pebble Brook has bestowed on Ritchie by taking her in when no one else would.

Pebble Brook Nursing and Rehabilitation Centre is a 231-bed facility which provides 24-hour skilled nursing, Alzheimer's, sub-acute, respite and hospice care. Their rehab department includes physical, occupational and speech therapy. Pebble Brook is located at 700 Jenkinson Ave. in Lake Bluff. For more information, call (847) 295-3900.

Rep. Kirk outlines goals at Forefronts breakfast

By JOHN KOSKI
Managing Editor

Lakeland Newspapers honored a select group of Lake County citizens at its Seventh Annual Forefronts breakfast at Stratford Banquets in Grayslake. Keynote speaker at the event was Rep. Mark Kirk who talked about his support of President George W. Bush's education reforms to have every child reading by grade three.

Kirk also said he is encouraged by the "robust way President Bush is handling foreign policy" by dealing first with our friends — Canada, Mexico and Great Britain — and then other countries.

He also iterated his goals as a congressman, which include tackling the drug problem in Lake County, looking into a new rail line to Antioch, cleaning up the harbor, and removing nuclear waste, which he said he has already discussed with the president.

Those honored at the Forefronts breakfast were:

• Bonnie Thomson Carter, Representative on Lake County Board

• Julie Donovan, Executive Director of Habitat for Humanity Lake County

• Bruce Johnson, Police Chief of Round Lake Park Police Dept.

• Dean Larson, President of the Libertyville/Mundelein Historical Society and Libertyville Trustee

• Claude LeMere, Community Development Director for Antioch

• Duane Laska, Mayor of Libertyville

• James McKinley, Jr., Businessman and Chairman of the Board of Fox Waterway Agency

• Denny Porter, youth football and basketball coach

• Nick Sheridan, for courage and perseverance in overcoming a near fatal disease

• Maru Tomusiak, Executive Director of Family Resources Center

• Bob Wegge, driving force behind Grayslake Veterans Memorial vote for more candidates than are allowed for any one position. Should an over-vote occur, the scanning system alerts the voter at the time he or she attempts to feed the ballot into the ballot box.

The voter can then decide to request a new ballot to avoid having a "no vote" counted in the over-voted office.

Helander said initially the county board of elections was not wild about the idea about switching to optical ballots, but since the November presidential election, they see the benefits.

She said only two or three companies make these optical scan voting machines.

"We're delighted that we beat the rush for the machines," she said.

Due to the high demand for the machines, many counties and municipalities will have to settle for leasing them, but Helander said Lake County was able to purchase theirs.

Many in her office have been training seven days a week to learn the machinery.

Helander said there will be one ballot box judge set up for the April 3 election that will set up the machine and close the polling place at the end of the day.

"We won't sleep until after April 3," she said.

"No one fought my cancer harder than CTCA"

(Cancer Treatment Centers of America)

"My doctor in Philly gave me 2 months to live. I came to Zion and in 3 months, my tumor has shrunk by 25 percent."

"This hospital healed my body. I didn't expect to be healed spiritually as well."

"The people here are like a family."

"I would have been lost at a university hospital. I know I would have been just a number."

"Why didn't I know about this hospital sooner?"

"You need to tell everybody about this place."

You have cancer. Or you love someone who does. Why consider Cancer Treatment Centers of America? Why leave the care of referred doctors and hospitals? Why travel possibly hundreds of miles for your cancer treatment? Why try new and unfamiliar therapies?

The answer, for thousands of patients, is the reason they to come to CTCA. Twenty-five years ago, we determined the state of cancer care was unacceptable. So we embarked on a mission to treat people with cancer, in ways that would make a real difference in their lives and those of their families. Today, our widely acclaimed care, which combines the latest medical technology with nutritional, spiritual, physical and psychological intervention, has served as a model for cancer care nationwide. It is total care for mind, body and spirit.

Just one of our core passions is nutrition. Faced with the fact that more than one-third* of cancer patients die of malnutrition, we realize how crucial nutrition is in an overall treatment plan. We begin with an initial assessment of your body's nutritional needs. A registered dietitian creates a well-balanced plan to boost or sustain your immune system, and help reduce the side effects of your treatment. As with every aspect of treatment, you'll become a partner in your nutritional progress.

If you or a loved one are currently fighting cancer, call oncology information specialist Doug White at 1-800-577-1255 to find out how CTCA can help you in your battle.

Political front becoming edgy; Pow! Zap! Wham!

Where there is competition, as might be expected, things are beginning to heat up in connection with the April 3 consolidated elections. Just about a month to gather up votes!

Unlike Libertyville, Wauconda and the Village of Round Lake, for example, where the mayor's post is uncontested, battleground communities in the Lakeland area are becoming noticeably edgy and, in some cases, uncommonly acrimonious. Would you believe? Civility and "gentlemanly politics" may be stylish these days in the nation's capitol, but not around this locality at election time.

Two former mayors, Joyce Frayer of Lake Villa, and Debbie Vasels of Lake Zurich, have come out swinging to get their old jobs back. Pow! Zap! Now that a stage-setting Feb. 27 primary is over and a Democratic nominee has been selected, the gloves are coming off in Waukegan where independent candidate Jack Potter is offering new ideas, new faces and renewed energy to vault the county seat center out of its Rust Belt doldrums. Jab! Counter! Duck!

In some places, it's politics as usual. Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton good naturedly is going about the business of campaigning for re-election. Only a small band of Welton enemies seem uncomfortable about having a perennial in the mayor's chair. In Fox Lake, where local politics always is a popularity contest, two challengers are out to unseat the populist incumbent, Jim Pappas. The Antioch mayoral race can be characterized as "traditional" where the challenger insists "I can do it better" than incumbent Mayor Marilyn Shindflug.

The mayoral campaigns in Mundelein and Grayslake, however, are cast in a different mold this year. The races in these two communities are attracting attention beyond village boundaries because of non-typical, or non-local campaign issues.

Guns and gun control is a front and center topic in Grayslake where two village trustees, Stacey J. Braverman and Tim Perry, are locked in a struggle for an open mayoral seat. Perry represents an administration that got rid of a popular gun show at the county fairgrounds that lies within corporate boundaries. Braverman has framed the gun show banishment as both a constitutional rights issue and an economic development question. She also is challenging the conventional wisdom that Rte. 53 is the end all solution to traffic gridlock. Not exactly the stuff of local politics—like filling potholes or replacing water mains.

Republican strategists are watching the Mundelein mayoral race closely because challenger Steve Powell is active in Democratic politics and the recipient of generous union contributions. Incumbent Mayor Marilyn Sindles' role in setting the pace for a total rehabilitation of the village infrastructure and physical facilities is almost an after-thought. Powell's national party preference and his union involvement have become topics of heated debate. Again, not exactly the stuff of local politics like hiring more police or studying pay raises for office personnel.

With four years of leadership at stake, the political discourse in a number of towns has become shrill and contentious. Genuine anger is an emotion not often seen in village politics. We don't know if this is good or bad. But this is what we're getting this year.

Wham! Crunch!

Tail wagging for bigger dog

In a bygone era, Gurnee existed in the shadow of Waukegan, an appendage, a bedroom for the muscular industrial and commercial center of Lake County. Gurnee's pride rested on attractive Brown Cr. homes, the scrappy Blue Devil basketball and football teams of Warren High School, and a landmark restaurant, the Rustic Manor.

How times have changed. In recent years, enterprises like Gurnee Mills Shopping Center, Great America, shifting car dealerships to the Grand Ave. auto corridor and scores of upscale residential subdivisions, long since have turned the spotlight on Gurnee, which originally came into being because it was a stop on a railroad line.

It took one final symbolic stroke, though, to drive home the point that Gurnee now is the dog and its long time neighbor is the tail. That was adoption by the Gurnee council the other night of a resolution opposing expansion of casino gambling in Illinois to Waukegan. If that act wasn't the ultimate indignity, the vote spoke loudly and clearly of Gurnee's dominance.

Hat in hand, retiring Waukegan Mayor Bill Durkin came before Gurnee officials to plea for their support in acquiring a casino. Coolly and analytically, Gurnee officials pointed out how the social fallout of casino gambling would be negative to their community. Trustee Donald Rudny made a point how riverboats generate windfalls at the expense of neighboring communities. That's Gurnee, Mayor Durkin.

Durkin lamented that Gurnee appeared to be telling another town what to do. Precisely. And that kind of authority is exercised from a position of authority. The bigger dog is speaking.

VIEWPOINT

No respect hounds 'Generous George'

Gov. George Ryan and comedian Rodney Dangerfield share a common problem besides their perpetually sad-eyed and jowly expression. Neither one gets any respect. Dangerfield wows the audience every time he grabs a microphone. Ryan wows the citizens of Illinois every time he picks up his pen to sign another giveaway check. Yet, no respect.

The guy has turned the old saying about "Nothing succeeds like success" completely on its head.

Gov. Ryan has been compiling a commendable list of achievements and even members of his own party are calling for his retirement. U.S. Sen. Peter Fitzgerald (R-Ill.) says, "Governor, don't bother running again."

A breath-taking $12 billion in infrastructure improvements has been spread around the state in Ryan's Illinois FIRST initiative. A nice bit of that money landed in Lake County. How much was the Lake County share? "Hard to figure. No one knows for sure," remarked State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest). Both Republican and Democrat legislators lugged in the cash.

Maybe Gov. Ryan isn't revered because of the way the cash was ladled out. Grant Township (Fox Lake) won a matching grant of $200,000 from the Dept. of Natural Resources to build some baseball diamonds and football fields. The township "matched" the grant with $200,000 from Ryan.

Count up the plus points for "good George." Ryan won national acclaim with his moratorium on executions. He's pushing for pay raises for state workers who care for the developmentally disabled. The governor is leading the way to raise the foundation level of $4,425 per student for state school aid. He has a plan to make schools more accountable.

Gov. Ryan can take his share of the credit for the retention and creation of more than 60,000 jobs in an era of economic insecurity and headline grabbing layoffs. Ryan has attacked brownfields, invested in ethanol research, made gun laws tougher, broadened the senior citizen "Circuit Breaker," created a tuition tax breaker, rebated taxes of $280 million. This is only a partial list of accomplishments of the first-term chief executive.

The governor can do a lot of things because of boom times. Fiscal 2000 ended with a $1.5 billion surplus.

Bear Magic

One hundred visitors to the recent Home Expo at the Fairgrounds, sponsored by Lakeland Media adopted teddy bears that were donated to four police departments, according to Bear Magic ambassador Doreen J. As always, Doreen is ready to accept donations of $2 each for the eight-inch bears at 847-367-0087. Gifts are tax deductible.

Relaxing bear

By going into hibernation, let's hope columnist Donna Abear who authored Life's A Bear seven years for this newspaper is only storing up material for more columns. There was a poignant tone to Donna's goodbye, a wistful suggestion that perhaps her writing days are not all behind her. Let's hope.

Too many "s's"

Debra Claxon, a sharp-eyed reader, found a good bit of humor in the fact that this paper used an abundant supply of "s's" to turn "as" from an adverb into a four-footed beast of burden (or a foolish two-footed creature) not once but twice. In the same paragraph! Finding the error "funny and silly," Debra figured computer spell check blew right by an error a live editor or proofreader would have caught. Well, yes. And maybe. Claxon wondered about melting the myth that artificial intelligence can replace human expertise. Sign me up!

One man's (office) family

A quirky squirrel has joined the Lakeland Newspaper staff, skittering about from office to office. He (she) scares the ladies and startles the guys. No one seems to know where the fleet-footed intruder comes from. Maybe a plant from a disgruntled subscriber who thinks the editor has gone squirrelly?

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Township scramble involves ex-county chief

Ela Township (Lake Zurich) hit the candidate jackpot for the April 3 election. A total of 19 candidates are in the scramble, the biggest township field in Lake County.

Incumbent Supervisor Bob Grever, hounded by personal problems and still smarting from the loss of his County Board seat two years ago, gamely is running hard for his sixth term. He has two opponents. Grever served one term as chairman of the Lake County Board.

The field ballooned when a flock of independents filed for trustee, one of them being Mimi Black, wife of County Board Rep.

Mike Talbott (R-Lake Zurich) who toppled Grever last year. Black's community interests include downtown redevelopment.

Four of the trustee aspirants are slated with Grever and two are aligned with veteran campaigner Bruce Hanson, a candidate for supervisor. Hanson has put together a team that includes current trustee Lucy Prouty for town clerk, and Terry Abbott, a maintenance veteran of the Lake Zurich park for highway commissioner system, and Rob Redmond, an assessment watchdog and Lorraine Block, a chemist and resident of Forest Lake, for trustee. About the missing slots for trustee and assessor, Hanson stated, "We're not greedy."

Fitz for senator

Lake County is expected to be well represented at a St. Patrick's Day luncheon honoring U.S. Sen. Peter G. Fitzgerald at 11:30 a.m., Monday, March 19, at the Hilton Chicago. The event, sponsored by the Fitzgerald for Senate Finance Committee, might quell speculation that the first term senator is thinking about running for governor.

Since bowing out of village politics, Haley has held state positions, including assignments for the Illinois Secretary of State. Maravellas, a prominent downtown Antioch businessman, has been a constant critic of incumbent Mayor Marilyn Shneiflug who heads up a re-election slate.

Lots of learners

The biggest training project in the history of the Lake County Clerk's office, training 3,000 election judges in use of the new optical scanning voting equipment, is going well, according to elections supervisor Colleen Conarchy. Primary and referendum balloting in four towns Tuesday served as an excellent tune-up for the April 3 consolidated election when new technology will be used in more than 400 precincts.

Better organized

Zion Township Supervisor Truman Hudson, eyeing a fifth term, admits that he's going to work harder and take his opponent April 3 more seriously. "We'll be better organized," commented Hudson as he charted strategy against Sherry Neal Ditzig, who came within six votes of ousting Hudson in 1997. Ditzig, a single mom and employed as a bus driver, is the daughter of one-time Republican powerhouse Bob Neal, who has bowed out of elective office but hasn't retired from politics. Right now his No. 1 aim is to get Sherry elected.

Quiet zone

April 3 Election Day in Wauconda might be the classic case of "There was a party and nobody came." Both Wauconda Mayor Jim Eschenbauch and Wauconda Township Supervisor Jim Keagle are running for re-election unopposed. Eschenbauch has been doing some personal campaigning in an attempt to get electors engaged.

Old fashioned

Grayslake Village Trustee Stacy J. Braverman is conducting what she described as an "old fashioned" campaign in her bid for the open mayor seat by asking voters what they want in local government. Braverman's theme is a pointed jab at her opponent, fellow trustee Tim Perry, who is running with the endorsement of retiring Mayor Pat Carey. Perry is "joined at the hip" with Carey who conducted her administration with a personal agenda, Braverman contends.

Changing focus

John Maguire, 42, a former Mundelein businessman who now serves as executive director of Mundelein Main Street, is out to get Mundelein more involved in affairs of Fremont Township in his campaign for Fremont supervisor. Traditionally, the Fremont supervisor is a rural resident as is Maguire's opponent, incumbent Pete Tekampe, a farmer. Interestingly, Maguire is a resident of the unincorporated sector of Mundelein. The challenger managed the family business, Mundelein Cleaners, until 1998.

for results.

Mayor Pappas claims that $3.6 million has been invested in the Fox Lake downtown during his administration. Upon further scrutiny, one finds that most of that expense was needed maintenance of an aging infrastructure, such as new water and sewer mains and the replacement of the old water tower. While these projects are necessary, they don't do much in terms of revitalizing the business climate.

I served as a village trustee and park district president in Rosemont for many years. If $3.6 million was invested in an area, those who authorized the expense were expected to demonstrate results. Maintenance items aside, if even $1 million has been spent downtown, where are the new businesses? Spending millions without a workable plan to attract new business isn't sound fiscal policy, it's a waste of taxpayers' money.

Gazebos, bike paths and parking lots are nice, but if they don't generate a resurgence of activity downtown, were they really a worthwhile investment? Fox Lake Forward has spent four years and millions of our dollars to revitalize downtown. I urge the administration not to spend any more money until they figure out why the cure isn't working.

Stop dealership

I feel like it is David against Goliath all over again. I don't even know which Goliath to aim at our mayor, our village and township leadership, the existing building and zoning laws or people who drive cars.

I have heard that the construction now going on "on the hill above the library" is going to be a car dealership. And if it is going to be a car dealership does that mean I will soon see a 30 foot plastic sign?

Will we soon have acres of asphalt and a source point of motor oil, antifreeze and gasoline gently flowing into an otherwise healthy wetland?

Can I now assume it will be more perilous for my children to ride their bikes to the library because of having to negotiate the entryways and visual pollution of a car dealership? I think the answer to all these questions is, "yes."

I would like to see the development of this car dealership grind to a complete halt. I would like the homeowners in the area to protest this first footprint of urban blight on our otherwise pastoral and pleasant main thoroughfare. I would like the library board and all other community groups with understanding to reconsider such a course of action and redress this issue.

Birthday boys:
Gorby and guess who birthdays every four years, some others celebrate big-time. Basketball player Darryl Dawkins says, "I'm 6-foot-11. My birthday covers three days."

Upon the anniversary of my birth I always think of the pain my mother went through to get me here. It has been said giving birth is like trying to push a piano through a transom.

Comedienne Joan Rivers says, "When I was giving birth the nurse asked, 'Still think blondes have more fun?'

The famous lawyer Clarence Darrow said, "I always remember that I was the fifth."

So was I, the youngest of five boys. Luckily, my mom didn't say, "Four is enough."

Have you noticed that everybody in favor of birth control already has been born?

Back to the question: How can I possibly lure Gorby, Jennifer and Bon Jovi to next year's birthday bash here in my hometown Antioch? Would it have to be a historic event? The Guinness Book of Records says the world's biggest birthday party was attended by 75,000 people in Buffalo, N.Y., on July 4, 1991, as part of the annual Friendship Festival celebrating the national birthdays of the United States and Canada.

I certainly couldn't assemble a crowd like that. How about a special cake? Guinness says the largest cake ever created weighed 128 pounds, including 16 pounds of icing. It was baked in 1989 to celebrate the 100th birthday of the city of Fort Payne, Ala., and was in the shape of the state of Alabama.

It was prepared by a local bakery and the first cut was made by 100-year-old resident, Ed Henderson.

That's a humongous cake. I'll probably just buy a box of Twinkies and a couple of candles.

Sometimes too much help is not a good thing!

Hi Dr. Singer,

Our son is in his first year of Jr. High and is flunking out of almost everything. We were devastated! I have seen a few columns of yours about this type of thing and have a couple questions for you. Since the beginning of my son's educational experience, I have been helping him with his homework almost to the point of doing it myself. If I didn't do it myself, I would give him so much help on it that he wouldn't really have to think. Up until this last school year, it didn't seem to be a big deal, but when he got into Jr. High, all of a sudden I saw him having a great deal of trouble with doing anything on his own and I can't help but wonder if I set him up for this by giving too much help over the years. That is my first question. Did I? My second question is about cognitive skills. I see that you help kids to develop better cognitive skills from some of your past columns. Could my son have had these kinds of problems and would that show up as always asking for help from me? If so, what can I do now? I feel horribly guilty and want to see my son succeed. Please help. D.H.

Hi D.H.,

I will give you my thoughts on this but first I want you to know two things. First, without seeing you and your son in person, telling you exactly what to do would not be appropriate in a column so I hope you will call again and consult with me in person so I can give you more direct help. Secondly, I know you feel guilty and I have met many other parents who feel the same way. I want you to read this column with the understanding that you did the best you could and did what you thought was right. So, don't spend your time worrying about guilt. Just make it right now! Also you are not alone! Many, many parents do the very thing you describe out of love and concern for their child. My answers to your questions will not be about looking back and placing blame. Rather, I hope you take my answers as a way to start fresh now so that your son can get on the right track and you can have a closer, more appropriate relationship together. It's definitely not too late!

PARENT'S PLACE

Regarding your first question: If you have been doing your son's homework for him for a long time, more than likely, it may have had an effect on his ability to handle new things and new difficulty levels. Kids do learn to handle the harder work by doing the material before it. Let me give you a comparison. We have a puppy that has gotten a cut on her paw on a few of our recent walks. She didn't step on anything. It just got sore from walking. Well, being the caring and overprotective person that I am, I wanted to rub some vitamin E oil on her footpad to make it better. Prior to doing that, I made sure to call our vet to be sure it was the right thing to do because I wasn't quite sure. The vet told me that it was not a good idea and that those cuts would scab over and make her feet tougher. Of course, she wanted me to clean the wound etc. If I would have done what felt good to me and her at the time, I would have made her feet weaker for the future. The toughening-up is the key to success! The calluses make us strong! The same is true of your child's academic experiences. The more chance he has to work on the hard stuff and get it right because he did the work, the less the fear will be in facing new challenges and the more he will feel capable of handling more. The key is to make sure that the difficulty goes up in small increments and not large jumps.

Another important thing for you and other people to know is this: most of the kids that I see in my program seem to come in at the transition times. What I mean by this is kids who have just gotten into real school work for the first time (first grade), the beginning of Jr. High, the beginning of High School or the beginning of College. As you might already know, each time a child makes the transition to a new level of school, the difficulty goes up and the "spoon feeding" goes down. By the time kids reach Jr. High, the spoon goes in the drawer permanently and the kids are asked to do things very independently. If a child has had cognitive processing difficulties all along that have been masked by help from parents and teachers, it becomes quite apparent and painful for the child when the independence requirement increases. This is why these transitions can be so tough!

Regarding whether your child has cognitive processing problems or not, I would have to do a screening on him to determine that for sure, but I will tell you what I have seen happen with other people who have experienced what you have reported. Many kids that I have seen, started with some cognitive deficits which made them ask for help from parents, teachers, etc. Once they made the connection that asking for help meant hardly having to do any work, they began to ask for more help until one day, parents, teachers, etc. are supporting their entire workload. So, it can start out being cognitive deficits and end up both cognitive and behavioral because the behavior worked to make the child feel less uncomfortable and has become a habit now. Think about it. If you felt scared about taking something on and someone else came along who would do it for you, wouldn't you go back for more? Most of us would.

As I said before, I think the key for you will not be in blaming yourself or looking back. I think your key is to get him screened, find out if he does have any cognitive processing problems and then start him on a very specific, structured, training program to train him how to take on the work on his own, without fear. Without training these skills back into shape, kids can have a very hard time getting on track. This is really the heart of what I do in my program, so this space won't be adequate to explain it fully here. Suffice it to say that I help kids and parents learn how to let the child take on the hard stuff without flinching. I want these kids to be able to look at the next upcoming challenge and say to themselves, "I know I can do this!" That is my goal for every kid that I see and I'm sure will be your new goal for your son.

I wish you luck and again hope you will call again.

OSCARS

"There really is a difference between cities," Carlson said. "And it probably will change as it gets closer to the Oscars."

Based on the first week of voting, 39 percent of Fox Lake voters picked "Gladiator" for best picture, followed by "Erin Brockovich" with 22 percent.

Carlson said two other potentially tight categories are Best Director and Best Supporting Actress.

For Best Director, the Fox Lake Theatre voters chose Stephen Soderberg for "Erin Brockovich" with 33 percent, and overall, Classic Cinema theaters chose Ridley Scott for "Gladiator."

Kate Hudson is running in the lead for Best Supporting Actress in Fox Lake for her role in "Almost Famous" with 43 percent and 41 percent for all theaters. However, there were five theaters that had a tie, so a future upset is possible with Dame Judy Dench for "Chocolat."

For Best Support Actor, Benicio Del Toro in "Traffic" was first with 35 percent, though Fox Lake voters preferred Albert Finney in "Erin Brockovich" with 28 percent.

Votes will be tabulated in six of the major Academy Award categories each week. The results for Best Picture will be posted in each theater. To find results for all six categories, check the Classic Cinemas website at www.classiccinemas.com.

The "Predict the Oscars" offers a grand prize of a free trip for four to Universal Orlando, including theme park passes, accommodations at the new Hard Rock Hotel for three nights, air fare on ATA and an Alamo rental car.

and extensive wetlands is known as the Ray Lake Forest Preserve.

"I think other land owners can be interested in balanced growth if they can be contacted before the house builders get to them," asserted Ray, who maintains offices in Chicago and her home. "That's what happened with our family. We sold for less to the county because we wanted to preserve our farm's open space."

Bohl, a grey-haired former gymnastics and tennis coach who spent 33 years in the classroom and coaching, said "the problem is that none of those involved work together. We need cooperation to serve the common good."

"We're brash enough to talk to landowners and ask them, 'Would you like to preserve your land?'" stated Bohl, who took a leadership role in Stop 79, a grassroots effort to rein in taxation plans of Fremont Consolidated School District.

Ray stressed that she and Bohl aren't anti-growth. "Some projects are beneficial, especially light industrial and commercial development that contributes to the tax base. By being pro-active, local leaders can help landowners realize tax benefits involved with sales benefitting the environment and open space, she stated.

Ray is active in the Fremont Township Planning Commission that includes Art Baker, of Peter Baker and Sons paving company; Jack Bowes, who is involved in a family-owned tavern and restaurant business with outlets in Mundelein and Ivanhoe; Vickie Freeze, an open space advocate, and Wally Dost, a resident of Mundelein.

By getting elected township trustee, Ray said she feels "we can get something done." Bohl added, "In our campaign, we're also asking what people want from township government." Both Bohl and Ray are convinced that township government is a good platform for citizen action in rural areas.

Both candidates lauded Fremont Township Supervisor Pete Tekampe, who they said is in tune with their sentiments about preserving open space and maintaining Fremont's rural charm.

Grayslake-based racecar driver Erick Hansen has received an invitation to compete in the 2001 CART Formula Dodge National championship presented by Racer. Hansen earned the invitation on the strength of his 2000 campaign in the Skid Barber Race series where he recorded six wins en route to a fourth place finish in the championship. The CART Formula Dodge National championship presented by Racer is an invitation only series that is sanctioned by Championship Auto Racing teams (CART), the same body that sanctions the CART FedEx Championship series, Dayton Indy Lights and the Toyota-Atlantic Championship.

"This is a fantastic honor," said a delighted Hansen. "Now I'll be on the radar of Champ Car team owners, guys like Roger Penske, Carl Haas and Chip Ganassi." On the series itself, Erick said, "It is a very good series for a young driver. The invitation only aspect raises the level of the competition—these aren't the fastest or most powerful cars, but it is arguably the toughest level below champ cars."

Hansen's current plan is to contest five of the 13 races, but will race the entire series when additional sponsorship is found. The series starts at Sebring International Raceway in

Lady Lancers go out winners in finale

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

It's not how one starts but rather, how one finishes.

And while the season has been one of growth and maturing, the College of Lake County women's basketball team got a much needed lift as it embarked on opening round action in the Region IV tournament.

"I was really pleased because the last two

The College of Lake County's Jessica Gutierrez snags the ball away from an Oakton defender during an early-season Skyway contest.—Photo by Candace H. Johnson games, we haven't cracked," said CLC head coach Bill Braman after his team posted its second consecutive victory Feb. 22, a 64-52 decision over visiting Elgin.

"We were patient on offense and maintained our poise. It was hard for us to put sustain both most of the season but the last two games, we learned how to."

And CLC (4-26, 2-10 Skyway) could have lost its poise late in regulation.

Ahead 54-52 with 3:20 left in the game, CLC's defense rose to the occasion, forcing Elgin into a 30 second shot clock violation.

In turn, sophomore forward Jessica Gutierrez charged right down the court and converted a layup for a 4-point CLC lead (56-52).

"They (Elgin) were on the verge of making a run - but basketball is full of runs," added Braman. "Instead, we had a big defensive stop there. We were effective with the zone (defense), which we had to switch to because of some foul trouble."

Gutierrez's basket was one of many on the evening as she led all scorers with 20 points.

"It's very satisfying seeing the culmination of a lot of hard work throughout the season, especially by our sophomores," said Braman. "They'll be missed next year."

The sophomore contingent includes Gutierrez, Erin Riepe and Stacy Haseman.

Meanwhile, freshman Stephanie Cripps, a former Grant Bulldog, showed her inside presence, especially in the paint.

Cripps netted nine points, all in the post, and finished with three blocks.

Next season looks promising, with freshman guard Stacie Peterson returning. Against Elgin, Peterson chipped in with 16 points, including two three-pointers.

After Gutierrez' bucket late in the contest, Kristen Pagano (eight points), Peterson and Haseman saluted the game by connecting on 5-of-6 free-throws in the last minute.

"This was a total team effort," said Braman. "We got the ball into the right hands at the right time. We saw the floor well and exercised our options with more consistency."

A close game throughout, CLC seized the lead for good (49-47) on a basket by Pagano with 7:45 remaining in regulation.

Elgin drew within one (51-50) with 5:50 left but Jennifer Bjalakowski's trey with 4:49 kept the Spartans at bay.

CLC men lose heartbreaker

It couldn't have gotten any more exciting in the nightcap, as the CLC men battled tooth-and-nail only to come up on the short end of an 84-83 decision in overtime.

Trailing 61-50 with 6:57 left in regulation, Andy Yarc's three-pointer started an 8-0 spree that drew the hosts to within three (61-58) with 4:42 remaining. The run ended with a Yarc (10 points) bucket while sandwiched in between was a Rickey Higgins trey.

Elgin maintained a 3-5 point lead until there was 39 seconds remaining. CLC had trailed 71-66 but Higgins (16 points, three rebounds, four steals, three assists) canned his second three-pointer to close the gap to 71-69. Elgin was fouled and made the first free-throw. However, a lane violation on the second gave the Lancers one last shot, down 72-69.

That's where sophomore forward Aaron Coleman drained a three-pointer with :14 seconds remaining to send the game into overtime.

"I had trouble getting open and take him (my defender) back door but couldn't," the former Warren Blue Devil said. "So I had to fire it up and it went in. It felt good when it left my hand."

Coleman was a monster inside on both ends of the court throughout the game, finishing with 25 points and 14 rebounds.

"We knew they (Elgin) were a pretty tough team - we beat them (also in overtime) the first time we played," said Coleman. "We just wanted to leave everything on the court because we knew this was the last time we'd be putting on the white jersey's."

In the overtime, Elgin appeared to pull away at 82-76 with three minutes left. But the never-say-die Lancers answered with a 7-1 run, highlighted by a Chris Gotsch trey and Jimichael Slaby short baseline jumper with :30 seconds remaining that helped draw the hosts even at 82-82.

Elgin then made 1-of-2 free-throws with :19 seconds left for the final margin of victory. Three last-second shot by CLC narrowly missed.

"What a game," said a disgruntled but somewhat satisfied Lancer coach Rob Sandler. "We just never quit. We were outmanned and outplayed most of the time but our guys really pulled together and turned in a great effort."

Behind Coleman's 25, Slaby finished with 16 points, four boards, three assists and a steal while Jim Nilles hit for 11 points and four rebounds and Yarc 10 points and six assists.

CLC traveled to Illinois Valley College in Kankakee for first-round regional action Feb. 27.

Oboikowitch filling role nicely at Carthage

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Even though the proof's not in the box score, there are so many other things a basketball player can do for his team.

Take Carthage College's Jim Oboikowitch. The 6-foot, 7-inch forward and 1996 grad of Libertyville High School has had no problem playing his role for the Redmen, currently ranked No. 1 in both the NCAA Division III and NCAA Division III Midwest Regional polls.

"When I was playing for Libertyville, we had a lot of go-to guys," he reflected. "But here, we feed more off of each other. Everyone just tries to help out wherever they are needed, from the starters all the way down the bench."

In the regular-season, finale at home against Augustana, Oboikowitch played almost 15 minutes during the Redmen's thrilling 68-67 victory.

"He's clearly our sixth guy," said 14th year head coach Bosko Djurickovic. "He's a delight to coach and is always working hard to improve."

In the win over Augie, Oboikowitch collected two steals, grabbed two rebounds and had a block while going 0-for-1 from the field. For the season, he is averaging just a shade under four points per game while grabbing three boards.

"He can definitely shoot if he needs to," said Djurickovic. "But with his size, he's primarily in there to set screens, get rebounds and open things up more for us (on offense)."

While at Libertyville, Oboikowitch averaged close to 13 points per game while pulling down seven rebounds.

At Carthage, the business administration and marketing major netted a career-high 11 twice, both coming this season.

As far as the team is concerned, terrific balance and hard work have been the ingredients which has yielded a 21-4 season, including second-place in the College Conference of Illinois & Wisconsin standings at 11-3.

"The balance on this team is really remarkable," said Djurickovic. "We have four guys averaging in double-figures. Every night, someone different steps up."

Speaking of those four, former Buffalo Grove product Jason Wiertel currently leads the team in scoring at a 17.5 clip. It was Wiertel's big block in the closing seconds that preserved the win over Augustana. And when Wiertel isn't hitting, the Redmen look have Rolling Meadows' Rob Gernes (15 ppg), Downers Grove native Greg Kitstou (14.7) and Schaumburg's Antoine McDaniel (13.5) waiting to step in. All are in the top-10 in scoring in the CCIW.

Last year, the Redmen claimed the conference crown before bowing out in the first-round of the NCAA Division III championship.

"We definitely have that on our minds (losing in the first round last year to Wisconsin-Eau Claire)," said Oboikowitch.

The Redmen, playing in the Great Lakes Region of the Div. III tournament, will have a chance to make amends when it opens the Division III tourney March 1 at home against fourth-seeded Marian (17-10). Tip-off is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Once again, Cubbie blue out in force at annual convention

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The Chicago Cubs were clearly playing out the string, one of the final home games of 2000.

"I asked my son if he had done his homework, and he said he had. So I asked him if he would like to see the Cubs play," a fan from western Michigan said.

So they hopped in the car and enjoyed a beautiful late summer's night at Wrigley Field. The Cubs lost the game. They had listened and watched a season's worth of games on WGN, but could only make it to a couple in person.

Such is the dedication at Cubs fans. A demanding yet still hopeful Cubs Convention is the best way to describe the 16th annual convention held in Chicago.

Recollections of the black cat, 1984, 1908, and 1989, and the talk of the departed Mark Grace and whether or not to resign Sammy Sosa dominated the three-day run.

"The black cat came first around me when I was in the on-deck circle. Then it went over to Leo Durocher. I thought it was going to go to the dugout, but it went under the stands," Ron Santo recalled of the infamous Shea Stadium incident.

"We were a family," Santo said of his kinship in the era of Ernie Banks, Glenn Beckert, Don Kessinger and Billy Williams, all convention attendees. "There is no doubt in my mind if we would have won in '69, we would have won two or three more times. I am convinced that Baltimore was the best team then, but God was a Mets fan. The Mets won 39 of 45 games," he said.

"There is an allegiance with Cubs fans. They may leave Chicago, but Chicago never leaves them," Santo said.

Santo, who played 13 years with numerous All-Star appearances, is somewhat of a local favorite as he has a baseball complex in Lake Villa named for him.

"The Cubs will have more fun in 2001," Banks bellowed to the cheering crowd. This was his annual phrase of optimism.

Kerry Wood is ready for a full-season of pitching after an 8-7 record last year in his recovery year from major arm surgery.

"I was pretty much 100 percent the second half of last season. I hope to stay healthy and have a full season. I don't go into spring training thinking about how many innings to pitch or wins or losses — only to get ready. I have worked out briefly with Todd Hundley in Arizona. We will workout the starting catcher between Hundley and Joe Girardi in Arizona," he said.

A beefed up staff of Jon Lieber, Kevin Tapani and new acquisitions led by Jason Bere and Julian Tovarez believes the Cubs will have no true No. 1 pitcher but several of equal caliber.

"I have enjoyed my welcome. But it is awfully cold in Chicago," said first base prospect Hee Seop Choi.

The news was of Friday's mixed reception for Sosa. He was introduced last and received some boos. The slugger, who averaged 56 home runs in the last three seasons, is in his contract year.

An elderly woman was proud she got every Cub there to sign an autograph. Yet she was dismayed how the Cubs treated now Arizona Diamondback Mark Grace.

Two last-place finishes in the NL Central — 109-169 since June 9, 1999, have been offset with the highly ranked farm system and the belief of club president Andy MacPhail to build from within. That means hope rests with the prospects of outfielder Corey Patterson, pitcher Will Ohman, Choi, and many more from minors.

The HoHo Kams, who operated HoHo

Kam Stadium in Phoenix are ready and willing for a big spring training pilgrimage. One red-clad representative recalled how Bob Kennedy switched from the Oakland Athletics to the Cubs he switched the spring training site to Mesa from Scottsdale, Ariz. The group is in its 50th year.

"There are only three of the original HoHo Kams left. Eighteen have died in the past three years," HoHo Kam Robert Burto said. "The A's won three World Series when they trained here, but they did not draw."

He recalled how the organizers once took out a loan based on promise of game tickets sold. They did so in the hopes they could pay it back before their wives found out. They were successful in that endeavor.

"We find a lot of people at the convention are going to spring training for the first time. They have a number of questions," he said.

This year, there is no trip to Japan, which should help boost the Cubs contender status for spring training attendance. A game for charity with many former heroes caps off the spring on March 30.

That wonderful phrase — "pitchers and catchers" report and the first intersquad game of Feb. 20 were on the minds of the thousands of diehards.

Tim Stoddard was one of the many former players on hand. He had an autograph session after Banks on Sunday.

"I came to the team late in spring training. I knew the Cubs' reputation. But then there were some moves made, some other moves made. There was just a belief we could win," Stoddard said of the 1984 NL East champs.

Today Stoddard is a pitching coach at Northwestern University. "I love it. It keeps me in the game," Lee Smith's set-up man said.

Dear Lake County Voter:

We are pleased to provide this Voter Information Guide which lists all the candidates and referenda for the April Consolidated Election. Lake County elections are now conducted on optical scan ballots, a single sheet of paper listing all candidates and public questions with an oval to the left for voting. Your official ballot lists the applicable units of government, the offices for election and all candidates for each office, as well as any public questions certified.

You will be provided a marking pen with your ballot and may use any available booth for marking your ballot. Completely darken or fill in the oval next to the candidate of your choice. Keep your marks inside the oval area and completely darken the oval. Illinois law requires the ballot box judge to view the heading of the ballot where the judge's initials are found. Please use the privacy folder provided to ensure only the judge's initials are viewed and not your choices.

You may insert your voted ballot into the ballot box tabulator which will scan the ballot. Should you attempt to cast more votes for an office than allowed, which is an overvoted office, the tabulator will alert with a beeping tone. You may surrender the ballot and receive another ballot, or choose to have the ballot accepted with the overvoted office, and no vote for that race will count.

Demonstrator optical scan ballots will be available at your precinct table on election day. Please take time to fill in the oval on a sample ballot before you receive your official ballot. We want your vote to count!

Very truly yours,

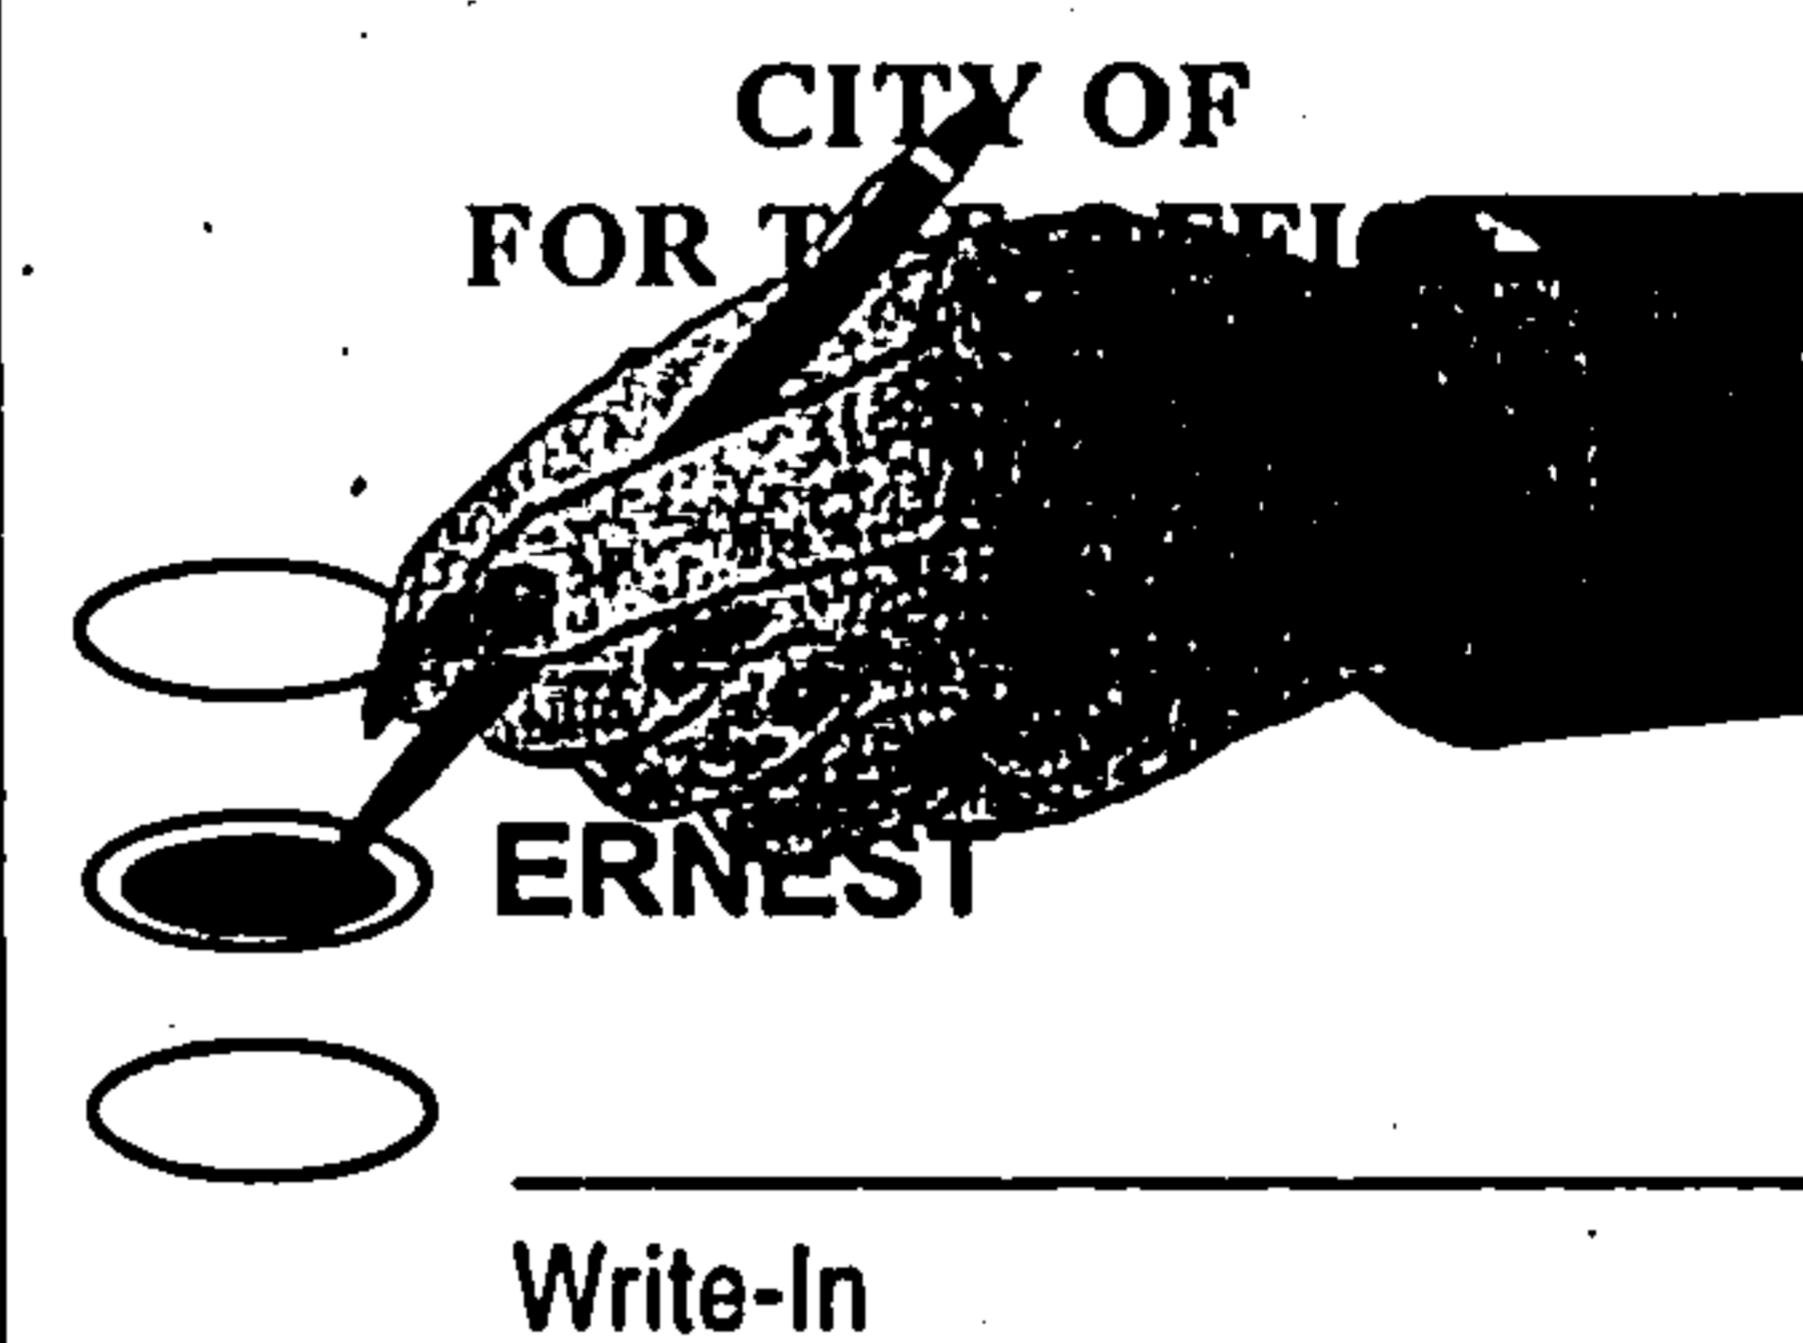

Willard R. Helander

Willard R. Helander

OPTICAL SCAN VOTING INSTRUCTIONS

To vote, fill in the oval to the left of your choice, like this .

If you tear, soil, deface or erroneously mark your ballot, return it to an election judge and obtain another.

To cast a write-in vote, fill in the oval to the left of the blank space provided and write the candidate's name in that space.

For specific information, refer to the signs posted in the voting booth.

You may vote by absentee ballot if you . . .

- expect to be absent from the county on election day.
- are employed as an election judge not in your home polling place, as an election worker, or will perform official duties on election day.
- are observing a religious holiday which prevents your presence at the polls.
- are serving as a juror on election day.
- are physically incapacitated and unable to go to the polls.
- are incarcerated as a pretrial detainee.
- are a student away at school.

You may vote absentee in-person at the Lake County Clerk's office, Room 101, 18 N. County Street, Waukegan. Voting hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday-Thursday; 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Friday; and 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. on Saturday, March 31st. The townships and municipalities listed below offer absentee voting for their residents. Please call the local office for their absentee voting hours.
